Germany Appeals for League of Nations Action Against French Invasion

Washington, April 7.—The United States, Great Britain, France and Italy are now engaged in a diplomatic conversation concerning the Ruhr Valley situation and the occupation of German cities in the neutral zone by the French, the State Department announced today. An exchange of facts and opinions is being made, it was announced.

Washington, April 7.—A German armored car fired upon French patrols east of Frankfort yesterday during the occupation of that city by the French, according to advices received by the State Department today. There were no casualties.

Paris, April 7.—A protest from Germany against the occupation of German cities by French troops was handed to Premier Millerand today. The note was delivered by Herr Wilhelm Mayer, German charge d'affaires.

The protest referred to the French advance as an "unwarranted aggression." The note declared that bloodshed was avoided by an order from Berlin for the German government troops to retire before the French. It adds:

"But the government is forced to make emphatic protest in the name of right, reason and humanity against this unwarranted aggression."

The German note refused to discuss the wording of the treaty articles that the Germans were accused of violating, but maintained that the intention of the peace treaty was not to prevent the German government from keeping order in its own territory.

Germany justifies the entry of government troops into the Ruhr district on the ground that conditions in the Ruhr were a menace to the peace of

PROBE WOMAN'S DEATH IN HOTEL

Medical Examiner Investigating Sudden Illness of Mrs. Catherine Christopher

Medical Examiner Magrath today investigated the sudden death in Clarke's Hotel of Mrs. Catherine S. Christopher, twenty-eight, of Webster street, East Boston.

According to the authorities, the woman died in the hotel, where she was a member of a party who had been drinking Italian wine for several hours. Three empty bottles were found in the room.

According to the police, Mrs. Christopher entered the hotel with her sister, Ethel Ball, of East Boston, Ada Cook of Brighton and Edward Gorham of Charlestown.

The party went to room No. 86, and a short time later Gorham went out. He returned about 5 o'clock, it was stated.

Between 6 and 7 o'clock, Ethel Ball went downstairs and reported to Manager Lavine that her sister was ill. Lavine notified the house physician, Dr. Pike, who went to the room.

He found Mrs. Christopher was dead and called the medical examiner.

RODMAN REFUTES SIMS

BIG RAIL STRIKE SPREADS

Chicago Union Men, Defying Leaders, May Extend Trouble Over Nation

Chicago, April 7.—Chicago's runaway strike of railroad workers now threatens to spread to other cities and possibly to become a natonal walkout which would virtually tie up all railroad traffic in the United States, it was apparent from reports received here today.

With all freight traffic completely paralyzed in the Chicago railroad district and practically all lines of industry in the city menaced by the strike, word reached here that the trouble is rapidly extending to Buffalo, St. Louis, Milwaukee and other cities, where "insurgent" unions are being formed apparently to break away from the control of the big railroad brotherhood and precipitate strikes in the fashion that the Chicago walkout fas started.

The strike of switchmen on eleven railroads became more serious today when 3,500 engineers and firemen, defying thenational heads of their union, the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, prepared to join the walkout.

This makes a total of 15,000 men on strike and means that the movement of freight on every trunk and belt line entering the city will be completely paralyzed within a few hours.

The men are asking a dollar an hour for foremen and ninety-five cents for switchmen, instead of the present rates of sixty-five and sixty cents. The Rock Island road has granted the demands, but officials of the other roads say they cannot negotiate with the men except through the brotherhood, which opposes the strike.

Paish Frames Plan to Get U. S. Billions

By International News Service.

Washington, April 7.—What is regarded here as one of the most amazing plans ever evolved in the world of finance has just come to light through revelations contained in a secret report to the British government by Sir George Paish, now in England, after a trip to the United States.

In the report Sir George proposes a scheme whereby this country would back war-stricken Europe for a period of five years at the rate of billions of dollars in credits annually.

This would be done by what he calls a "revolving fund" of a thousand million dollars, to be set in motion by the war finance corporation, and which ultimately would be redeemed by selling in America bonds issued by the League of Nations, through the instrumentality of which the fund would revolve."

When Sir George Paish came to America last Winter considerable mystery was attached to his visit. He conferred with the banking kings, the Secretary of the Treasury and officials of the war finance corporation, but denied he had been sent over by his government to obtain a $10,000,-000,000 loan. His report, a copy of which is understood to be in the possession of the American government, reveals, to a large extent, the possible nature of his mission.

For any European country to float a bond issue in the United States at this time, he stated, is entirely out of the question. He declared, however, the situation is not altogether hopeless.

The war finance corporation," he said, "can, I am informed, not only obtain credit from the national and reserve banks, but it can issue to

CONDEMNS ADMIRAL'S ATTACKS

Rodman Says Sims Besmirched Navy and Has Been "Indiscreet" and "Injudicious"

Washington, April 7.—Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander of the Pacific fleet, appeared today before the Senate Naval Committee and criticised Rear Admiral William S. Sims in the sharpest terms.

Admiral Rodman declared that Sims' charges have resulted in "besmirching the good name of the United States navy."

Admiral Rodman denounced "the indiscreet and injudicious methods employed by Admiral Sims in setting forth his views."

"SMOKE SCREEN OF WORDS."

"The motive which prompted this public investigation is veiled under a smoke screen of words," Admiral Rodman said, "and I can't for the life of me see but that it will discredit the work of the navy in the war, which I know has been most creditable."

Admiral Sims' breach of confidence "in making public an intimate and confidential conversation," Rodman said, had received "the deepest censure in and out of the navy."

Admiral Sims' statue in London, Rodman said, "was that of a liaison officer, which later was combined with that of naval attache."

"I have an idea the war was not fought and won in London alone," Rodman declared. He said that "the only place for the direction of the navy's policy was in Washington."

SAYS NAVY WAS PREPARED.

Admiral Rodman, who commanded the battleship squadron with the British, repudiated the charge that his ships were unprepared.

"Never in my forty odd years of service, most of which I spent at sea, have I seen such preparedness and efficiency as obtained in our battleship fleet at the beginning of and during the war," Rodman declared.

He said the American squadron was fully equal to any in the grand fleet and that the British admiration was so high that they sought to learn our methods for their own use.

America's preparedness in the entire navy, Rodman said, "was just as high as congressional appropriations permitted."

Admiral Rodman declared that under no condition could the American navy be held responsible for heavy losses of tonnage and loss of lives, as Admiral Sims charged.

While admitting that Sims may have "made the statement according to his own belief," Admiral Rodman said, "there are three kinds of lies, plain lies, damn lies and statistics." Sims' statement, Rodman said, came "under statistics."

"That statement seemed to preposterous," Rodman continued, "that I talked it over with older officers, and that is what I have heard them and the other old officers say."

CHILDREN SAVED BY MOTHER

Fitchburg Woman Aids Husband in Rescues as Home Burns

Fitchburg, April 7.—Lawrence H. Burns, Jr., his wife and four children had a narrow escape from death today in a fire which destroyed their home on Payson street.

Burns was awakened by smoke. Without stopping to dress, Mr. and Mrs. Burns each grabbed a child and carried them to the street. Then Burns made two more trips to carry the others to safety.

The blaze, evidently starting in the basement, worked its way through the partitions and to the roof. Within fifteen minutes of their escape a large section of the roof fell in, burning the rooms in which the couple and their children had been sleeping.

NEW APPEAL TO SAVE TEREGNO

Governor Requested to Delay Execution and Hear Story to Be Told by Jurors

A final attempt to save the life of Antonio Teregno, sentenced to die in the electric chair this week, was made today when Lewis R. Sullivan of the Governor's Council asked for a postponement until next week.

In an appeal to Governor Coolidge, Councillor Sullivan asked for this stay of execution in order that the jury which convicted Teregno might be permitted to confer with the Governor.

It is said that these jurors possess sensational evidence which, if substantiated, would result in a new trial for the man who, without executive clemency or court action, will die before sunrise Saturday.

Councillor Sullivan also said that he would attempt to have Teregno visited today by the Governor's Council when the members went to Charlestown to see Charles E. Peaker of Weston, serving a sentence for larceny of $12,000 and forgery. Peaker, who was bookkeeper for P. E. Atteaux, Inc., claims he was "framed" to prevent the disclosure of a business scandal.

According to Councillor Sullivan, the Governor did not ask the council for advice in regard to the Teregno case, but merely called them in to listen to the evidence presented. Under the law, however, the Governor is not compelled to submit such a matter to the council.

In the meantime the condemned man is said to be on the verge of nervous exhaustion, buoyed up by hope one minute, and sunk into the depths of despair the next. His head has been shaved and his clothing cut in readiness to apply the electrodes when he is placed in the chair.

PALMER AIDE IN 'RED CASE'

In Charge of Government's Side of Colyer Habeas Corpus Proceedings

John E. Hoover, special assistant to Attorney-General Palmer, arrived in Boston today to take charge of the government's case in the habeas corpus proceedings of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Colyer of Wellesley and other alleged Communists seeking to avoid deportation.

He stated that Attorney-General Palmer would not appear personally in the case, which is being tried by Judge Anderson in United States District Court.

It developed today that the alleged "Reds" are being financed in their fight by the Workers' Defense Conference of New England, with quarters at No. 724 Washington street. F. P. Cosgrove of the Conference is in attendance at the trial.

The feature of today's proceedings was the indorsement by Attorney-General Palmer of the refusal of Division Superintendent George E. Kelley of the Department of Justic to make public the number of men investigating "Red" propaganda. Superintendent Kellher had refused to divulge the number, despite repeated orders from Judg Anderson. Today he agreed to give the information to the judge and attorneys, with the understanding that it be confidential. His terms were accepted.

Another development today was the statement of James Sullivan, assistant commissioner of immigration, that the round-up of "Reds" last January was all directed fro Washington. Local authorities had no discretion, he said. They were to arrest all known members of the Communist and Communist Labor parties, particularly the officers.

Sullivan was grilled at length by Judge Anderson and counsel, for the alleged "Reds" as to the motive behind the demand for unusually high bail.

Judge Anderson in the course of his remarks to the witness said he thought the bail was high, as the only sentence facing the accused was deportation. He pointed out that if they escaped and stayed in the country they could scarcely avoid arrest. While if they left the country the purpose of the law would be served.

The Colyers are from Milwaukee. Assistant Commissioner Sullivan said that the bail was fixed at $16,000 in Colyer's case because it was feared he might not be found when wanted if released on nominal bail.

GOVERNOR INTIMATES HE'LL SIGN BILL

Doesn't Approve of Measure, But Will Bow to the Majority

The first direct intimation from Governor Coolidge himself that he will sign the daylight saving bill was made today.

During his conference with the newspapermen, Governor Coolidge, when asked if he cared to indicate what he would do on the bill, which has now reached his desk, replied:

"I do not like the bill, but I feel that it is one of those bills on which the wisest course would be to follow the opinion of the Legislature. There are 320 members of the Legislature who have been in closer touch with the situation than I could have an opportunity to be.

"Of course, some of the farmers would be inconvenienced, but not all of them."

Governor Coolidge has until Monday, but he said he would probably act today or tomorrow.

Governor Coolidge plainly indicated that he has in mind the fact that daylight saving, after weeks of thorough debate, won the overwhelming approval of both Senate and House.

The bill provides that daylight saving shall go into effect on the last Sunday of this month and shall remain in effect until the last Sunday of October.

He was fined $10 and costs and given a suspended sentence of a month in the House of Correction.

GERMANS PROTEST FRENCH ADVANCE IN RUHR AS UNWARRANTED

the whole country. The protest declares that arms were handed over by German recalcitrants wherever the Reichswehr were in control.

Germany accuses the allies and associated powers of violation of the protocol of December 5 by which it was promised that, in case of alleged violation of the terms of the peace treaty, the only measures employed were those provided by the treaty "in accordance with the rights of peoples."

Germany took the stand that even if the action in the Ruhr was a violation of the peace treaty, it was a question for the League of Nations. The German contention was that the League should act without military intervention even if Germany is a non-member of the international organization.

The note adds that "Even if the French withdraw shortly the invasion will result in incalculable harm and difficulty for the German government, which desires only peace and quiet in order to fulfill the harshest terms of the treaty."

Berlin Says French Plan to Occupy Essen

London, April 7.—The French plan to occupy Essen, the seat of the great Krupp gun works, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin today.

Essen is a considerable distance north of the territory taken over by Marshal Foch's French soldiers yesterday and lies opposite the British zone of occupation.

The German press is highly excited over the situation. The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Berlin quoted the Tageblatt as saying: "The German Reds can say to Premier Millerand in one week: 'You have done more for the Bolsheviists than Lenine.'"

Vorwaerts, the official organ of the German Socialists, declared that "Germany is defenceless and has the right to demand freedom from military threats."

According to a dispatch, quoting the Tageblatt, the French used 20,000 troops to occupy Frankfort, all Senegalese negroes. The Security police were disarmed, but the "Blue police" were not molested. The famous old castle at Darmstadt was taken over when that city was occupied.

At Homburg and Dieburg the same tactics were used as at Frankfort and at Darmstadt—a strong force of cavalry first entered, followed up by infantry. A large number of tanks accompanied the troops. The German populace for the most part was apathetic.

2—The Reichswehr be prevented from marching through the southern part of the Ruhr District.

3—The work now delegated to the Reichswehr be undertaken by the proposed workmen's army and unreliable reactionary officers of the regular forces be dismissed and punished.

4—Delivery of munitions to counter-revolutionary forces, including Erhardt's naval brigade, immediately discontinued.

5—Prussian government reorganize the security police, employing workmen.

The communication was signed by representatives of the German labor unions, the Clerks' Association, the German Officials' Association, the Berlin Labor Union Commission, the Social Democratic Party and the Independent Socialist Party.

FRAMES SCHEME TO GET BILLIONS

Briton Works Out Novel Plan to Get U. S. Backing for Europe

American investors tax free securities against the collateral of securities it received from exporters for the credit it grants against them.

"In November, 1914, the agreement was reached between the bankers of England and the bankers of the United States for the creation of a reciprocal banking credit of one hundred million dollars for the purpose of financing America's adverse trade balance at that time on the one hand and of meeting any future adverse balance of Great Britain to the United States on the other.

"Therefore I suggest:

"1—That these two groups of American and British bankers should be reformed, and expanded to represent practically the whole of the bankers of America and Great Britain, and that a reciprocal credit of one thousand million dollars should be created in place of the existing reciprocal credit of one hundred million dollars.

"2—That the representatives of the American bankers should draw (against shipments of produce) upon the representatives of the British bankers up to the credit limit.

"3—That the British group of bankers should be fully guaranteed against loss by the British government."

"4—That the bills drawn up on London against the actual export of produce and manufactured goods should be accepted by the British bankers in the United States and should then be discounted with the war finance corporation.

"5—That the war finance corporation should in turn either discount the bills under its own guarantee with the bankers of America and through them with the Federal Reserve Board, or should issue its own securities to American investors for the purpose of providing the necessary funds up to one thousand million dollars.

"6—That the credit of one thousand million dollars granted by the war finance corporation should be for the period of five years."

"By this arrangement," the report adds, "Europe could obtain American credits of nearly one thousand million dollars for the purpose of providing for its immediate necessities. There would be a cash balance in Europe at the disposal of the banking group after the sale of the American produce of nearly one thousand million dollars, and here it would have to remain."

The credit would last but three months and after these were up, in the opinion of Sir George, Europe would be worse off than ever, unless the proposed credit from the war finances corporation, "could be converted into a revolving fund for five years."

"In order to convert the single credit into a revolving fund," he explained, "I would suggest that after the produce is in Europe the proceeds should be paid over to the reparations committee of the League of Nations."

The funds in the custody of the League of Nations, Sir George suggests, might be the basis of a League or Nations bond issue to be sold in the United States. Then, as fast as sold, he said, "fresh credits could be granted to Europe and the operation repeated."

Dr. Angus W. McLean of the war finance corporation characterized the plan as "visionary and impracticable," and added: "Such a thing could not possibly be put through."

PEACE RESOLUTION IN HOUSE TOMORROW

Washington, April 7.—The German peace resolution will be taken up in the House tomorrow under a special rule providing for a total of eleven hours of debate, which insures a vote before adjournment Friday night. There is no doubt of the passage of the resolution, but the Democrats are confident they will rally sufficient votes against the measure to prevent its repassage over the President's veto.

Girls' Dresses

Of Fine Cotton, Ginghams, Chambrays, Etc.

Priced 3.95 Each

OUR recent sale of waists at $2.05 came about in this way: Manufacturers had made up goods in anticipation of a business equal to the last of last Spring, but weather conditions brought all business near to a standstill. Now, why should not the makers of Girls' Dresses be in the same predicament? Dresses are made of the same materials, fine cottons, ginghams, chambrays, etc.

So it proved. Manufacturers had made up great quantities early in March, only to meet the same setbacks, and were in practically the same condition. Therefore they made some concession in price. These dresses are all newest goods, probably the most attractive dresses offered this season, possibly the best value wash dresses ever made up to sell at this price. We do not hesitate to say that these dresses will be a great introduction and a decided saving, as some of them are about half regular price. Sizes 4 to 14 years.

STYLES—Are mostly the wanted Bloomer Dresses, finely made.
MATERIALS—Chambrays, plaid and checked ginghams, with crisp organdie collars, cuffs and sashes.

CROKER FLAYS SONS AS INGRATES, WEAKLINGS AND WAR 'SLACKERS'

IS HOT AT MALIGNERS OF WIFE

Ex-Boss to Exact Retribution; Says Children Received More Than Million

Palm Beach, Fla., April 7.—Richard Croker added another instalment to the public discussion of his affairs that he and Harold Nathan, his lawyer, have apparently decided upon as a good method of counter-attack in the struggle for the possession of the property that has been started here by the children of the former leader of Tammany.

Croker declared he would eventually have an accounting with all of the people who instigated checks upon the reputation of his young wife as they attacks are summarized in the gap in the suits that have been filed about the appointment of a committee of person and property.

EYE'S FLASH ANGRILY.

While he was talking of this phase of the case, anger flashed from his keen eyes.

"I will make demands for retribution that I will follow to the end," he said.

He said he had given his children $720,000 in three accounts, this in addition to smaller sums he was continually giving them as they needed it and to the share that each received from their mother's estate of $500,000.

"I gave Howard lots of money," said Mr. Croker. "The boys were always asking for it. I did my best to make something out of them in business, but it was no use. The trouble with my boys is that they won't get out and fight for a living. They wouldn't even go to war.

BOYS WERE "AFRAID."

"I wrote to Richard from Ireland saying that I thought the war had gone far enough without he and Howard getting into it. I said that if I ten years younger I would be in it myself and I wanted to see my son in it. The letter Richard wrote me in return made me sick. The only thing I could get out of it was that they were afraid to. At any rate, they didn't go, did they?"

Croker said that his fortune had been much overestimated. He declared that he would sell everything that he has in real and personal property in the world for $2,500,000.

WOOD SPEAKS OF 'ELEMENTS OF DISORDER'

Alton, Ill., April 7.—Withholding any direct allusion to the victory of Senator Hiram W. Johnson in the Michigan Republican primaries, General Leonard Wood, after receiving the Michigan news, made the following statement in an address here: "The Republican party is returning to power and we want to take hold of the after-war problems on the old sound lines of that party. We don't want to allow elements of disorder to get into the party."

MANY REVENUE STAMPS DELAYED IN MAILS

Following numerous complaints from income taxpayers, that they have not received their revenue stamps, Internal Revenue Collector John J. NEW HYDE PARK LINE PROPOSED

Elevated Suggests That Bay State Establish Separate Service for That District

A possible solution of the street railway problem in Hyde Park, where the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company has discontinued all lines except between Roslindale and Forest Hills, was discussed today at a conference of trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts and the Elevated, at which Mayor Peters was present. The conference took place in the offices of the former company at No. 1 Beacon street.

Representatives of the Elevated proposed that the Eastern Massachusetts Company establish a separate operative district in Hyde Park; that Hyde Park be relieved of its burden of the tax levied on Boston to meet the annual deficit of the Elevated; that the money thus saved be applied to the cost of operation of the proposed line; and that the Legislature fix the rate of fare.

The Eastern Massachusetts trustees took the suggestion under advisement.

Says Baby Slept on the Floor, Under Paper

How she and her two-year-old baby slept on the floor for two nights with only newspapers for covering after her husband had sold the furniture, was testified to by Mrs. Ruth E. Pitcher in a suit for divorce against Loring D. Pitcher, both of Medford. The case was heard by Judge Keating today in East Cambridge Court. Mrs. Pitcher charges cruelty and non-support and asks for the custody of the child.

She said her husband never gave her money and that many times she and the baby did not have sufficient food. When he sold the furniture a second time, she said, she left him and went to her mother.

Almshouse Probers Charge Dr. Donlan Made No Accounting of Supplies to Island

That Mayor Peters and other city officials will be asked to testify to the charges they had in seeking the removal of Dr. Charles E. Donlan was the declaration of his counsel, Joseph Lundy, following the first hearing before the City Council of charges of neglect of duty, for which the infirmary trustees ask to have the physician ousted as head of the Long Island hospital and almshouse.

Charges by Penal Institutions Commissioner Thomas C. O'Brien of deplorable and filthy conditions at these institutions were met by counter charges of Attorney Lundy that the infirmary trustees were a board of "dismissed" appointed by Mayor Peters to "get" Dr. Donlan.

MANY VERBAL SKIRMISHES.

The meeting was marked by spirited skirmishes between Lundy and O'Brien, who with Building Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, member of the board of trustees, gave the trustees the side to the Council. The hearing will be resumed next Friday at 2 o'clock.

"Ridiculous, hearsay evidence" was Lundy's characterization of O'Brien's testimony. The attorney for Donlan declared O'Brien was out to "get" Dr. Donlan, which brought a heated denial from the commissioner.

"I had no intention to 'get' Dr. Donlan," O'Brien declared with asperity. "I have been accused by the trustees of being his attorney. If I had been out to 'get' him, I would have 'got' him right."

CLOTHING NO BLAMED.

"There were unbelievable conditions in the matter of clothing," O'Brien said. "Underclothes were worn for a year without being cleaned and in the case of paralytics the outercloathes were covered with grease. No towels were furnished to the inmates and after bathing they were obliged to dry themselves with the soiled underclothing which they had taken off. The men after washing their hands wiped them on their trousers." O'Brien declared.

"Dr. Donlan told the trustees that the morale was unsatisfied, that the trustees could not bring it back and he could not bring it back. The buildings are in a deplorable condition, the premises unclean and the verandas pitfalls and menaces. The fire gate in the main almshouse was filled with waste paper and cigar and cigarette butts despite the fact that Dr. Donlan had pointed out the hazardous character of the buildings.

"During the year more than $100,000 worth of food and supplies go to Long Island. There is no accounting for these things and the requisitions are not countersigned by the superintendent. Frequently it is found that eight pounds of butter are ordered, for instance, and eighteen pounds are delivered. Whether they are consigned on Long Island or elsewhere is a matter of conjecture."

CROWLEY DENIES CRIME INCREASE

Disputes Theory That "Dry" Law Makes Crooks More Successful

Prohibition has caused no increase in crime, nor have the crooks in Boston become cleverer or more nimble-witted because of the alcoholic restrictions, according to Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley.

The superintendent takes direct issue with Chief of Detectives Edenburn of Pittsburgh. The latter declared that crooks were attempting more sensational exploits since their wits were no longer befuddled by liquor.

Said Superintendent Crowley: "To the first place, the men who are considered the first-grade crooks never used liquor anyway. They had to be always alert and in possession of their every faculty. Safe robbing, or whatever it may have been, was their business, and they would no more think of going to their work with a befogged brain than a lawyer or business man.

"Quite often the big crooks are users of drugs. But even with this weakness the real criminals are rarely addicts. They do not use the drug to rouse up sufficient nerve to commit the act, they use it after the crime is successfully accomplished as a rest to nerve and brain.

"Prohibition has had no effect what ever on this class of crook, according to our records. He is doing about the same as usual, neither more nor less often than before July 1 last. There is one type of crime that prohibition has put a stop to very effectively. This is wife-beating. The records show that assaults on a wife by the husband have become very uncommon now. These were almost always brought on by the husband being drunk and not being aware of what he was doing at the time. Also prohibition has lessened the number of assaults on the street. This was generally brought on by drunkenness also.

"But for the master criminal, the safe blower, the bank robber, the con man, prohibition has had no effect whatever, in my opinion."

REPORT ADVANCE IN COAL PRICE IS CHECKED

Washington, April 7.—Team work among Federal prosecutors has put a check upon the move of coal operators and smaller fuel distributing agencies to secure large profits on coal sold at retail, it was announced at the Department of Justice today. A review of reports indicated that district attorneys acting upon Attorney-General Palmer's instructions had prepared for immediate presentation to grand juries all cases of profiteering.

COMES TO COURT BADLY CUT UP

Roxbury Woman Accuses Husband of Trying to Kill Her With a Razor

Her head and hands swathed in bandages and weak from loss of blood, Mrs. Elizabeth Gregory appeared in Roxbury court today against her husband, James Gregory, thirty-five, a coal teamster, and told Judge Hayden how he attacked her with a razor and attempted to kill her in the presence of her two children by a former husband at their home on Fairweather street, Roxbury.

Gregory was arraigned on two complaints, assault with a razor and assault with attempt to kill. Judge Hayden waived jurisdiction and held Gregory in $200 on the first complaint and $500 on the latter. In default of bail he was committed to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Mrs. Gregory said when she returned from a theatre Monday night her husband said: "I'm going to give the undertaker a job; I'm going to carve you up," and then proceeded to cut her with a razor.

Mrs. Peabody Bride of William S. Eaton

The Old North Church on Salem street was the scene today of a wedding of historic interest to Boston, through the marriage of Mrs. Gertrude Peabody, widow of Frank Everett Peabody, to William Storer Eaton, both of whose ancestors were prominently identified with the annals of the old edifice.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop Lawrence, assisted by Rev. William H. Dewart, rector of the church. Mrs. Peabody was given in marriage by her daughter, Miss Amy Peabody, who, with 12 others, was attended by the Earl of Camperdown, an English peer, who has been a resident of Boston for many years.

The historic interest comes through the fact that the great-great-grandmother of the bride, Martha Atkins, 2nd, a descendant of John Howland of the Mayflower, was married in the same church in 1768 to Captain Silas Atkins, 2nd. A few years later Mrs. Atkins and her daughter, Martha, and Abigail, found great difficulty in getting a British pass to leave the city, and were obliged to make their way down the harbor and Broad Sound in an open boat to Marblehead, where they found Captain Atkins, who had just come up the coast from the West Indies.

The daughter, Martha Atkins, was married also in the Old North Church to John Boit Gray, Jr. Among the other Boston sea captain, who had recently returned from a voyage to the northwest coast of America, where he had discovered the Columbia River.

The grandfather of the bridegroom, Rev. Asa Eaton, was rector of the church from 1805 to 1818, and it established the first Sunday school in America. Mr. Eaton, the bridegroom, erected not long ago a pulpit in the church in memory of his ancestor.

Mr. and Mrs. Eaton will live in the home on Mr. Eaton's estate at Lakeville. It is likely, however, that they will spend the November month on board Dr. Eaton's yacht, Taormina, with which he has won many cups in the cruises of the Eastern and New York Yacht Clubs.

GERMAN FIRMS BUSY WORKING FOR ENGLAND

Washington, April 7.—Great Britain has begun to trade with Germany upon a large scale, but under a plan which keeps the former busy, and retaining for England the lion's share of profits. American government financial and commercial experts, in reports made public today, state that Germany is now shipping vast amounts of raw materials to German concerns, and the British keep control of the finished product.

NERVES BROKEN, SALEM MAN ENDS LIFE BY GAS

Bay State Rejoices Over Daylight Law

Passage of the daylight saving law by the Massachusetts Senate caused rejoicing throughout the State. Leading business men union officials and workers generally added their words of praise when they learned that the Senate had passed the measure.

They all agreed that the extra hour of daylight in the evening is going to be of great value to the average man and woman who works for a living.

REDUCES H. C. OF L.

The home gardener will welcome the added hour. It will mean that he will reduce his present cost of living through raising beans, corn, tomatoes and other vegetables to supply his family, to say nothing of the surplus which his wife will "put up" for next Winter.

Another benefit is that everybody will have a chance to obtain additional recreation after arriving home.

Prominent men and women who worked in behalf of the measure are outspoken in their praise of the Boston American because of its tireless efforts to secure passage of the measure. From the beginning this newspaper has advocated the passage of the act, in both its news and editorial columns, believing that it would be beneficial to the people as a whole.

BUSINESS MEN INDORSE.

Expressions of opinion by leading Bostonians follow:

EDWARD BRUMAN, A. Shuman Company—"I think the passage of the law is a wonderful thing. It will be of great benefit to the people. I know that our employes will appreciate it. It means more outdoor life and recreation for the workers. One of the young women in our office said that as the result of enjoying the extra hour of sunlight last year she always felt better the following day while at work. The American has done great work in helping secure the passage of the law. The American is to be congratulated on the good work it has done. The American devoted more space to the subject than any other paper in the city."

JOHN SHEPARD, Jr., Shepard Norwell Company—"I am greatly in favor of the daylight saving law. I favored it six years ago when very few did and at that time advocated such a law. I feel that the Boston American has done a great deal toward securing the passage of this measure and believe that the people throughout the State appreciate its efforts. The workers especially will be helped by this law. There are so many reasons in its favor that it would take a good deal of time to enumerate them. We own a farm and can't see how it affects us adversely. The only place where it can affect the farmer adversely so far as I can make out is away out West where the dew is heavy."

FELIX VORENBERG, The Gilchrist Company—"I am intensely interested in the passage of the bill. Of course I would much prefer the passage of a national act, but the next best thing is the passage of an act by the Massachusetts legislature. The Boston American has done a great deal through efficient publicity to secure the passage of the act in this State. The daylight saving law does not mean that any time or out of the pockets of business men but it means a great deal to the thousands of working men and women of the State."

LOUIS E. KIRSTEIN, Wm. Filene's Sons Co.—"I am strongly in favor of daylight saving, and in saying this I believe, from talking with many that this is the consensus of opinion of thousands of us who work in the stores. All of us enjoy Summer afternoons in the open; daylight saving enables us to enjoy a longer time out of doors, with the resulting benefits in enjoyment and health."

G. A. R. veterans, several hundred in number, paraded from Faneuil Hall to Kingsley Hall this afternoon for a luncheon given by Governor Coolidge and Mayor Peters were introduced to the veterans as the guests of the fifty-fourth annual encampment of the Massachusetts Department.

Delegations from various affiliated organizations and auxiliaries, including the Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans, Women's Relief Corps and Army Nurses, were received at the morning session. New officers were installed in office prior to the parade.

TELLS OF RUMORS INVOLVING BIROS

Salem, April 7.—The trial of William Biros, alleged slayer of May Blanche Cook, was resumed in Superior Judge Callahan and a jury in Superior Court today. Edward E. Carr, witness for the State, was cross-examined by Attorney William H. McSweeney. In redirect examination Carr said that on the night of December 12, 1918, when the girl was killed, he had heard rumors that Biros had shot her. He told John J. Carroll, who was at the Now and Then dance, following which the girl was shot, was the next witness.

Wanted--A One Legged Farmhand and Wife

New York, April 7.—There's a good job for a man who wants to get back to the farm, but to qualify he must have only one leg, and he must also have a wife. The American Land Society, enrolling city workers for farm work this Summer at its recruiting headquarters in the Lexington Theatre, received a letter from a New England farmer, himself a one-legged man, who wants to employ a legless soldier and his wife.

"I am well aware of what a one-legged man can do, as I have been using a leg for fifty-six years and have always made good," the farmer wrote. "I would ask no man to do what I cannot do or have not done."

TWO HELD FOR KEEPING UNFIT FOOD FOR SALE

Charged with keeping and exposing for sale unfit food, and with keeping an unclean shop, Solomon Grossman and Israel Girls of Shawmut avenue appealed fines imposed today in Municipal Court and were held in $500 and $400 respectively. Grossman was found guilty on a separate count of keeping for sale a large quantity of unfit food at a storehouse at No. 105 Shawmut avenue, and appealed a fine of $50. According to health officials, the defendants obtained the goods without cost from firms which had condemned the food and gave it away to be used as fertilizer.

CONGRESS IN DOUBT, MAY PROLONG SESSION

Washington, April 7.—Adjournment of Congress prior to the Presidential conventions is practically impossible, according to leaders in both Houses. Neither the Republicans nor Democrats are willing to go into the matter of candidates so unsettled in both parties.

Neither do they wish to leave Congress with issues in the unsettled condition they are in, until the conventions have given some word on the question. Republicans and Northern Democrats fear the President may make it an issue against Congress if adjournment is forced before action is taken to relieve business of its tax burden.

DAVIS SEES DANGER IN ALLIES ACTING SINGLY

London, April 7.—John W. Davis, American ambassador to Great Britain, sees danger in independent military action by the allies singly. "The principle involved by France acting alone is a dangerous one and if followed opens the way for the nations to act on their own initiative and the devil take the hindmost," said the ambassador today. "One can sympathize with Germany in sending troops, and yet France should be assured that Germany cannot violate the Peace Treaty."

Schroeder May Never Fly Again

By International News Service.

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—Major R. W. Schroeder, U. S. army aviator at McCook Field, who recently broke his neck in a spectacular aeroplane accident before he will permit Schroeder to fly. It is believed that he has suffered from acute dilation of the heart as the result of his record flight.

CORN "CORNER" EXPECTED TO REACH GRAND JURY

Chicago, April 7.—Persistent reports were current today that the corner in grain, launched by several grand jury indictments of ten grain dealers in Chicago, two in St. Louis and one in Omaha as the result of an alleged "corner" in corn which has existed here for several weeks. These reports on Tuesday caused a break in the corn market, and some observers are expecting a further break. A disaster reported as due to the corner was the failure of the brokerage firm of Eugene M. Hoyne & Co. The concern was caught short.

CHELSEA TO DECIDE ON SELLING PARK LAND

A hearing will be held April 12 on the petition of Mayor Brett of Chelsea to be authorized to sell an auction lands which was formerly a part of Union Park. The proceeds of the sale would be paid to the treasurer of the city to be used solely for park purposes.

John D., Jr., Says Rich Religious Failures

Pittsburgh, April 7.—"What will save the world is the doctrine and the life of that humble carpenter of Nazareth."

That is the doctrine John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is preaching on his tour of the East, for the interchurch world movement, and he is preaching it to large capitalists after telling them in plain terms wherein they have failed in their relations with their men.

A universal brotherhood is what the richest young man in the world is campaigning for.

Incidents crowded quickly into his schedule. Late last night, just as the train drew into Pittsburgh, he came out from his berth, his secretary behind him. Breakfast above him. Rockefeller walks to the man who is to interview him and says he will talk. A Universal correspondent happened to be that man.

"I'm fine, sleeping in the Pennsylvania mountains," he said. "I overslept. Didn't hear the auto just as the train drew into Pittsburgh, he came out from his berth;

LEGISLATORS TO SPEAK.

Representative Frank H. Cowin of Dorchester, who will preside at the meeting tonight, has prepared a long list of speakers on the rent situation.

Representative Martin Hays of Ward 26, Brighton, father of the rent bill now before the Legislature, and President Victor A. Heath of the Boston American Tenants' League head this list. Then come Lewis R. Sullivan, Charles A. Winchester, James H. Brennan, Representative Daniel C. Murphy, Representative William H. McDonnell, former Representative Joseph McGrath, James McNulty, president of the City Council, Councilman Edward A. McLaughlin, John J. Daley, secretary of the Dorchester Board of Trade; Mrs. Horace A. Buckley and Miss Margaret Foley.

Through the courtesy of the Boston School Committee the meeting in Brighton Friday night will take place in the assembly hall of the Brighton High School.

Other meetings are being arranged in Greater Boston for the discussion of this vital problem.

Today the Joint Committee on Judiciary of the Legislature held a hearing on the report of the Commission on the Necessaries of Life at the State House.

REVERE NAMES RENT BOARD.

Following the enthusiastic mass meeting in Revere at which a Revere branch of the Boston American Tenants' League was organized, Mayor Wentworth of that city has appointed the following committee to adjudicate the differences between landlords and tenants there: Frank Nicolini, William H. Oneal, Louis B. Glinxman, Philip Gillan, Jacob Mendona, Robert Perry. The committee will hold a public hearing at the Ward 2 Fire Station tonight.

Prominent citizens of Greater Boston continue to evince much interest in the rent situation.

"It is very important that something should be done," said Mrs. Charles A. Hardy, of No. 34 Gray street, Arlington, in connection with the rent situation in Boston and its environs. Mrs. Hardy is president of the Woman's Club of Arlington.

MORE HOMES THE REMEDY.

"Of course, those of us who are reasonable, know that landlords must raise the rents some to keep up with mounting prices. But it would seem that those landlords who double the rents are unjust to their fellow men—selves of the present great scarcity of houses. I have seen many instances where families were distressed to find homes, after their own had been bought by other families, also distressed for shelter. The basic remedy, of course, is more houses. In the meantime something should be done to relieve the present distress."

Mrs. Chester W. MacNear, president of the Home Study Club of Ashland will put the Hays rent bill before her club at its meeting next Tuesday for indorsement.

"I believe that the Hays rent bill is a good bill," said Mrs. MacNear. "I think it should be generously indorsed. Rent conditions in certain sections of our State are deplorable. I think the ladies of the Home Study Club will indorse the bill."

Mrs. Henry D. Livingston, president of the Nineteen Hundred Club of Hillside, will submit the Hays Rent bill to her board meeting for a decision to put it before the club. "I shall be glad to submit it to the club at our next meeting if the board so decides, as I am sure they will," said Mrs. Livingston. "This bill seems to me to be good, though I do not believe we know much about it as it will soon. Certainly the rent situation demands some action."

Wholesale Traffic in "Straw Leases" Bared

Wholesale traffic in "straw leases," by which landlords remove tenants from their property without explanation, came to light at the hearing before the Commission on the Necessaries of Life when Thomas H. King of Roxbury admitted that his sole business is that of offering himself as lessee for a consideration.

He made the startling disclosure that since he started in business a few years ago he has acted in this capacity more than 30,000 times.

He does business, he declares, under the firm name of the Dawes Electric Company.

ADMITS LEASES "BLUFFS."

Asked by Mayor Adams of Melrose, a member of the commission, if he wanted the commission to believe that any of the "leases" were made in good faith, he answered: "Of course not. They are only 'bluff' leases."

According to King he is hired by landlords who, for reasons best known to themselves, want to eject a tenant without controversy. King ostensibly takes a lease on the property involved and then, acting as lessee, notifies the tenants to vacate in thirty days, and notifies them that they will be ejected if they are not out by that time.

"I then serve the occupants with a writ," he explained, "and if they fail to move by the specified time I take the matter to court." He stated that the course has been successful, and that in the past year and a half he has been forced to eject only one family.

Members of the commission say that King's methods are "within the law," and under the present statutes cannot be stopped.

Sydney Miller and Samuel Levine, joint owners of a tenement block at Nos. 14, 16 and 18 Blue Hill avenue, declared that although they make a return of 40 per cent. on the money invested in the property, the tenants came to them recently and forced the landlords to take an additional $2 a month from them.

SAYS LANDLORD CURSED HER.

According to Levine, he did not want to take the self-imposed boost but finally decided to do so when the occupants became insistent. The commission drew from the owners that they have but a $1,000 equity in the building from which they receive a net annual profit of $400.

Mr. Miller and Levine had been brought before the commission on the complaint of a Miss Ganzy, an occupant. She declared that her rent was raised $5 a month because she protested a notice to vacate. "I told Mr. Levine," she said, "that I would report him to the Commission but he told me I could go to hell, and that I had no legal rights and that I could go to the Commission and tell them to go to hell, too."

The case was dismissed on the promise of the landlords to give Miss Ganzy at least sixty days to find another apartment.

The board acted in a conciliatory capacity on several disputes between landlord and tenant and were successful in patching up differences. One tenant had complained because she thought that she had been asked to vacate because she had asked the commission to investigate alleged profiteering on the part of the man owning her house.

The landlord in question explained his holdings in full, and showed satisfactorily that he was not making an exorbitant return on his money invested. This case was also dismissed when the property owner promised to withdraw the notice to vacate.

Charles W. Foster of Winthrop, who previously refused to give any information to the commission before getting legal advice, supplied the necessary figures to the board. According to the commission Foster makes a net profit on his property of 13 per cent. Foster protested against the manner of arriving at that figure, and the case was continued for further investigation.

The hearing was continued today.

Building Operations in N. Y. to Be Stimulated

New York, April 7.—Appointment of Tenement House Commissioner Frank Mann as chairman of the Mayor's committee on the erection of buildings, was announced today by Mayor Hylan. The newly created committee, the Mayor said, is to stimulate building operations in the city for the purpose of relieving the housing shortage and evils growing out of it.

One of the first goals of the committee will be to have the building interests, who volunteered to carry out a $100,000,000 building program if assured of stable prices for labor and material for a fixed period, begin that work.

Mayor Hylan said, "I feel that once this work has been begun, New York city will enter upon the greatest building boom in its entire history. It is up to everyone who is either directly or indirectly interested in this great project to lend every aid possible in making it harmonious and successful."

Gifts to Children

Teach them to make their own Jiffy-Jell desserts and serve in dainty ways. See offers below

Made with Style—E Mold

To Every Child

Serve this week a real-fruit dessert

Jiffy-Jell, above all else, is the dessert for children.

They revel in it. Five times the cost can serve them nothing half-way so appealing.

It means real fruit—a wealth of it: the fruit that children need. Accept these offers this week—let them know Jiffy-Jell.

Crushed fruit in it

Jiffy-Jell is the new-style quick gelatine dessert which millions have adopted.

The fruit is not a mere flavor. Each package contains a bottle of liquid fruit-juice essence.

We crush the fruit, condense the juice and seal it. It makes Jiffy-Jell a real-fruit dainty, rich in fruit.

We crush half a pineapple in Hawaii—fruit too ripe to ship—to make the flavor for one Jiffy-Jell dessert. So with all fruits—the fruit essence is abundant.

Less than apples cost

Yet Jiffy-Jell, with its rich, rare fruits, costs less than apples cost.

It comes ready-sweetened. It comes acidulated with lemon or grape acid. The fruit essence comes in a vial. Simply add water and a package will serve six in mold form, or twelve if you whip the jell.

No other fruit-made dainty costs so little or is so inviting.

Try pineapple flavor and loganberry. Try lime-fruit flavor for a tart, green salad jell. Try mint for a mint jell to serve with meats.

Let the girl make it—teach her housekeeping. Then use the trade-marks to get molds, cups, spoons, etc. Teach them dainty ways of serving.

Buy enough Jiffy-Jell to get the molds you want. Then watch how the children enjoy it. See how it changes your dinners. Don't let your children longer miss what millions of children get.

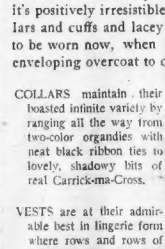
Neck Fixings—

to give that "just out of the bandbox" look



New Collars and Ties

Crisp New Vests

New Ribbon Pendants

Smart New Scarfs

Neckwear is always attractive, but in the Spring it's positively irresistible! All the fresh, crisp collars and cuffs and lacey little Gilets fairly cry out to be worn now, when there's no need of a big enveloping overcoat to crush and hide them.

COLLARS maintain their boasted infinite variety by ranging all the way from two-color organdies with neat black ribbon ties to lovely, shadowy bits of real Carrick-ma-Cross.

VESTS are at their admirable best in lingerie form where rows and rows of tucks and insertion rival lace and embroidery in daintiness. But vests are very smart when they run to bright color silks or glittering brocaded effects.

SCARFS rejoice with the coming of Spring, for then it is that they may supplant the winter furs. Whether your taste runs to Knitted Silk Scarfs in vivid hues, or the fluffy and ultra-feminine Marabou, you'll admire the new Scarfs.

RIBBON NECKLACES, with beads, can be depended on every time to lighten a sombre costume. It's gratifying to find that so agreeable a note of color may be introduced inexpensively by one of these fetching little pendants.

NEW YORK VOTES ARE UNPLEDGED

Johnson and Hoover Fail to Get Control of the State's Big Delegation

By International News Service.

New York, April 7.—New York State's delegation to the Republican national convention at Chicago will be uninstructed.

Although accurate returns from the State-wide primaries held yesterday are not available as yet, it is assured that the fight made by Senator Hiram Johnson of California to obtain the election of delegates pledged to his candidacy was unsuccessful. Similar efforts on behalf of Herbert Hoover met with defeat.

Such returns from New York City and throughout the State as are available indicate that the four candidates for delegates-at-large, headed by United States Senator William M. Calder, which had the support of the regular organization, polled a vote approximately two-thirds greater than that accorded William M. Bennett, who made the fight as an avowed supporter of Senator Johnson.

There was no contest affecting the Democratic delegates, and the regular candidates won handily.

The Republican delegates-at-large will be Senator William M. Calder, Senator James W. Wadsworth, Nathan L. Miller and William B. Thompson. The Democratic delegates will be Governor Alfred E. Smith, Miss Elisabeth Marbury, Harriet May Mills and Louis E. Dembecker.

Condemn "Wholesale Murder" of Irish

Resolutions condemning the "wholesale murder of the Irish people" and calling upon Congress to "abrogate all treaties with England until its hired cutthroats and assassins are withdrawn from Ireland," was passed at a meeting of Roger Casement Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom in Beacon Hall.

The resolution follows:

"While the English government is carrying on its historical policy of wholesale murder of the Irish people is no time to stand on ceremony.

"As citizens of the America of Washington, the America of our faith and love which we desire to preserve, we appeal to Congress to abrogate all treaties with England until its hired cutthroats and assassins are withdrawn from Ireland, and until the Republic of Ireland functions without any interference from England."

U. S. MERCHANT FLEET TO GO

Seventeen Business Experts to Advise at Capital on Methods of Sale

Washington, April 7.—The entire American merchant marine, valued at more than $2,000,000,000, is to be sold.

"Seventeen of America's most distinguished business men," according to the Shipping Board's announcement, are to be called to Washington for a two-day conference to give their aid and advice as to the best way to handle and sell all Shipping Board property, including the 1,500 steamers comprising the American merchant fleet.

If the deal goes through the government will cease to operate its merchant marine and the entire fleet, second only to that of Great Britain in size, will pass permanently into the hands of private corporations.

Of the seventeen business men who will be asked to come to Washington to suggest the terms of sale, all are or have been intimately identified with the largest private interests in the country.

Interesting Case of Miss Baird

Sick Four Years, Woman Tells How She Got Well

The case of Miss G. I. Baird of 10 Glenville avenue, Allston, Mass., may bring new hope and health to other sufferers who have stomach worms and do not know what is the matter. A letter from this sufferer tells the story:

"I have been sick almost two years, had four doctors with little or no relief. Some of the doctors said I had enlarged liver, nervous indigestion, too much acid in my system. I was so tired in the morning it seemed as though I could not get dressed and get to work. I was growing thin every day, went from 138 to 111.

"I was so discouraged I didn't know what to do. One night about three weeks ago, I picked up a paper and saw your Dr. True's Elixir, Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, advertised. I made up my mind I had worms and the next day bought a small bottle of Dr. True's Elixir and took three teaspoonfuls until I had taken the bottle.

"I was surprised at the result, pinworms, some a finger long, so much slime, some that looked as though it was just the skin of worms. The day before I took Dr. True's Elixir I thought I should go wild with the crawling in my stomach. I could feel them. My stomach was sour all the time and some days I could not retain what I ate, while other days couldn't keep anything on my stomach. I coughed so just the minute I went to bed some nights I would not sleep more than one or two hours. The second dose stopped the crawling and the second night I didn't cough.

"I feel like a new person, all my friends say I look so much better, but I don't need to have them tell me, for I know my feelings. I wouldn't have believed any one could feel so much better in such a short time. I tell everyone I know. I can't give your medicine praise enough."

The root of many of the evils of sickness is the bowels, a very vital part of the human body.

A cold, a fever, diseases or the like can be remedied at once, providing the operation of the bowels is normal—the first and most important relief can be had by giving a Laxative, but be sure it is the proper kind.

Most everybody in these days of quick action and strife, forget their health. The laboring people bolt down their meals, often go to bed right after eating, and wake up in the morning restless, force down a breakfast and then are distressed all day.

A Business Man Writes: "The continual rush of office details and the short meal hours I get, together with, I think, restaurant foods, has simply knocked my system all to pieces. I felt logy, and had no appetite until I took Dr. True's Elixir, as a Laxative. It is a great thing. No one should neglect their bowels."—Boston Business Man.

The medicine mentioned is made by Dr. J. F. True Co., Auburn, Maine, and is called Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller. On sale since 1854. Recommended by many druggists who have used it in their own families.

Dr. True's Elixir means a big saving to health and pocketbook. At all druggists. Three sizes, 40c, 90c, $1.60. Buy the large size.

WIRE TO FIANCEE TRAPS FORGER

William Bishop, 22, Said to Have Victimized Hundreds, Taken at Scranton, Pa.

Scranton, April 7.—Trailed across the country for six months by Pinkerton detectives, William Bishop, twenty-two, said by the authorities to be one of the cleverest forgers and swindlers ever at large, was arrested here through a telegram he sent from here to his sweetheart, Marie Olson, who is in a Cleveland hospital.

Bishop, on police records as an army deserter and burglar, is alleged to have obtained thousands of dollars from business men in Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit, Buffalo, Lancaster, Pa., Binghamton, Washington, Newark and other cities.

At Lancaster he was said to have represented himself as secretary to J. J. Guggenheim, the copper king, using as an introduction letters and telegrams he sent to himself and apparently bearing Guggenheim's signature. He victimized prominent citizens, it is alleged, on notes and forced checks.

The extensive nature of his alleged swindlings, among the victims of which were many banks, led the Bankers' Association to start Pinkerton detectives on his trail, resulting in the arrest.

LAWRENCE LABORERS REFUSE TO END STRIKE

Lawrence, April 7.—After a stormy session, in which arbitration measures were ignored, the building laborers, about 600 in number, refused to call off the strike which has tied up Lawrence and vicinity. The strike committee conferred with the master builders, who are disposed to settle by arbitration, but the offer was rejected. The original demands were 80 cents per hour for common laborers, and 85 cents for hod carriers. The men have since increased the demand to $5 and 90 cents per hour.

Lipkowska to Wear Wigs Despite Police

Lydia Lipkowska, beautiful Russian soprano, who gives a concert at Symphony Hall, April 18.

Is beautiful Lydia Lipkowska going to run afoul of the Boston police when she gives her concert in Symphony Hall, Sunday night, April 18?

It all depends upon whether a wig can be considered as a costume.

The laws regarding Sunday concerts provide that no change of costumes shall be made during any act.

WIGS OF GOLD AND SILVER.

If wigs are costumes Lipkowska will get into the clutches of the law, because she intends to wear two different wigs as well as her own hair at her Boston concert.

Lipkowska brought back from Russia, two marvelously fashioned wigs, one of spun gold and one of spun silver. These wigs were among the royal treasures of the Kremlin of Moscow, which was looted by the Bolsheviats. They were offered for sale by two soldiers, who paraded them through the streets on bayonets, and Lipkowska ventured out of her house to stop the Bolsheviats and bargain with them for the treasures.

"My program in Boston includes a group of French songs of especial character. I believe that my silver wig gives atmosphere to these songs and I shall wear it when I sing them.

WIGS GIVES ATMOSPHERE.

"My Russian songs are of dazzling character of the type of Rimsky-Korsakoff. The glittering gold of my other wig sets them off most admirably.

"For my songs in English and Italian I shall wear my own hair.

"I cannot think the Boston authorities would do anything so preposterous as to prevent me from wearing my wigs. I shall make no other change of costume."

R. I. LEGISATORS CHARGE JURY OFFICE ILLEGAL

Providence, April 7.—Insurgent General Assembly members say the office of jury commissioner is unconstitutional and seek to abolish the office held by Representative Jacob A. Eaton. The General Assembly passed a law which provided for a jury commissioner to be elected by Superior Court judges. Insurgent members say the judges have no elective power. A bill calling for the abolition of the office is in the Senate judiciary committee.

MRS. HIGGINS RETIRES AT WILLARD SETTLEMENT

Bedford, April 7.—Mrs. Myra L. Higgins, who for ten years has been head resident of the Llewaan Lodge, the country rest home in Bedford, of the Frances E. Willard Settlement of Boston, has retired. She will be succeeded by Miss Grace M. Hill. Mrs. Higgins will retain interest as counsellor, but will no longer be in residence.

Teeth You Envy

You See Them Everywhere Today

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

There is a new method of teeth cleaning used on millions of teeth today. Wherever you look you can see the results—teeth that glisten, teeth uniquely clean.

Those envied teeth are simply daily treated for cloudy, clinging film. And the method is at your call. A request will bring it to you, and your own teeth in a week will show you what it does.

The Trouble is Film

Teeth become coated with a film. That viscous film which you feel with your tongue clings to teeth. It enters crevices and stays.

The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary dentifrice does not dissolve it. The soapy tooth paste even helps it cling.

Twice a year, perhaps, you have a dentist remove it. But in the meantime it may do a ceaseless damage. Thus millions find that, despite all brushing, teeth discolor and decay.

Tooth troubles have been constantly increasing. Few people have escaped them. And the modern dentist knows that most of them have been caused by film.

How Film Wrecks Teeth

It is this film-coat that discolors—not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Dentists long have known this. Dental science has for years been seeking a film combatant, and now it has been found. Able authorities have proved its efficiency by clinical and laboratory tests.

The method is now embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. With it are combined two other modern requisites. Leading dentists everywhere are urging its daily use. And millions of people have already discovered its effects.

The New-Day Method

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to constantly combat it.

But pepsin must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. So this method long seemed barred. Science, however, has discovered a harmless activating method, and active pepsin can be every day employed.

Authorities agree that this tooth paste meets other new requirements. So it represents in three ways the ideal modern dentifrice. And it means a new era in teeth cleaning.

Let It Prove Itself

The results of Pepsodent are quick and apparent. Anyone can feel and see them. One can never doubt after one week's use that it must supplant old methods.

So a 10-Day Tube is being sent to everyone who asks. A book goes with it to explain all the effects. In every home someone should try it, for film removal is of very great importance. Send the coupon for a ten-day test, and judge the results for yourself.

Compare your teeth now with your teeth in ten days, and you will never return to old methods.

Millions Now See the Results

Millions of people have already made this ten-day test. They see the results in whiter teeth, and they know the teeth are safer.

Make the test which they made. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten as the fixed film disappears.

Then remember that film is the great tooth wrecker. Its constant removal may entirely change the future of your teeth. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

GAVE TALLY TO TOWN CLERK

Three Precinct Officers Testify at Hearing on Arlington's Election Returns

That at least one candidate in the late Arlington election had access to returns in voting booths on election day was admitted today by witnesses at the hearing on charges of irregularity in Arlington town affairs which opened in the Cambridge district court before Judge Almy.

Further charges that one or more candidates helped to count returns, that ballots were unsealed and that other irregularities existed were brought by Frederick C. Gardner of Arlington, who some time ago filed a request for a court inquiry.

Gardner has been several times defeated for election to the Board of Public Works.

Assistant District Attorney Arthur K. Seagrave is conducting the inquest. Some sixteen witnesses were on hand.

Much of the testimony centred about Thomas J. Robinson, for many years town clerk of Arlington, and candidate for re-election without opposition. Frank Y. Wellington, Precinct 1 officer, admitted that he had given information as to who had voted to Robinson on election day, and that Robinson had checked off names on the list.

Q—Did you question Mr. Robinson as to his right to see that list? A—We did. I had some doubts, so I asked the warden, and he said that Mr. Robinson was boss.

David T. Dale, official counter of ballots in Precinct 1, testified that he read off to Robinson names of those who had voted. He said that he did not ask the warden.

Q—Why did you give the list to him? A—Because he asked me for it.

The witness said that he saw Robinson several times during the day and that Robinson helped with the tally after the polls had closed. He said that he did not see any ballots sealed.

John J. Roach, Precinct 2 officer, also testified to giving a list to Robinson for inspection. Joseph Moore, of Precinct 1, said that the ballots were unsealed.

Thomas D. Kennedy, who was elected to the Board of Public Works, testified that he had made no effort to get anyone to vote for him, either in person or by telephone. Walter T. Kenney, a cousin of Kennedy, testified that he called about 200 voters by telephone in his cousin's behalf.

George C. Tewksbury and John J. Donahue, election officers, did not see any envelopes containing ballots sealed. They could not state, however, whether they had been sealed or not. George McK. Richardson, clerk of the election, did not see the envelopes sealed or signed.

Elmer Buckley, an election officer; Daniel T. Ahern, a registrar of voters; Eben F. Dewing, chairman of the registrars, and Miss E. Caroline Pierce, assistant clerk of the town, said Robinson had the key to the box containing ballots.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR GIVES UP

John A. MacAuley of Mattapan Taken to Cambridge Court; Held on Four Charges

John A. MacAuley of Wellmore street, Mattapan, wanted by the Cambridge police on four counts in connection with an automobile accident, surrendered to Captain John J. Carney in the Central square station today.

MacAuley was said to have been driving a car on Monday night which struck a post on Harvard Bridge, inflicting injuries on Herbert W. Turnbull of Erie street, Cambridge, which caused his death. James G. Newall of Abbott street, Lawrence, who was also in the machine, escaped without injury and was arrested on a charge of intoxication.

MacAuley and Newall were arraigned in the Cambridge District Court today and their cases continued. MacAuley was charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving, going away without making himself known after injuring a person, and damaging property of the city of Cambridge.

According to the police the three men, who were employed by a Boston automobile firm, drove to Lawrence, where they procured liquor. On the way back the police say the men drank heavily and the accident was the result.

DECLARE GOVERNMENT MEAT CONTROL FAILS

Government control of meat production in Great Britain has been an absolute failure, according to a statement issued today by the Institute of American Meat Packers. Prices have advanced from 100 to 140 per cent. since 1914. Consumption has fallen off as a result. The surplus supply has vanished and the whole experiment has demonstrated, according to the Yankee packers, that government control as a panacea for high prices is a delusion.

To select the prettiest girl in the South End, who will bear the title, "Miss South End, 1920," the Suffolk Social Club of Ward 6 will hold a beauty contest tomorrow night at a dance of the club in Odd Fellows' Hall, Tremont and Berkeley streets. The contest will be open to girls of the South End, who will appear on the floor. Representative Cornelius J. Driscoll will present the silver cup to the winner.

EVIDENCE AGAINST MRS. OTTERSON ALL IN

Concord, N. H., April 7.—County Solicitor Rainie this afternoon finished his presentation of the evidence against Mrs. Howard Otterson, charged with the murder of her brother-in-law, Maurice Otterson, at Hookerett last November. If the Grand Jury brings in an indictment she will be arraigned tomorrow at 10 o'clock. The witnesses included Sheriff Wooster, Howard Otterson, her husband, Inspectors Lynch and Mohr of Manchester, Patrolman Edward Silva of the local police and Medical Examiner George E. Magrath of Boston.

QUESTION THREE IN MURDER OF WOMAN

Rochester, N. Y., April 7.—With three men detained as witnesses, the police today were endeavoring to solve the murder, by strangulation, of Mrs. Frances de Lorm, twenty-eight, wife of William de Lorm. Her body was found in a lot on the outskirts. The men detained are the husband, Tony Mangravelano and Sarafino Acorsa, said to have been seen with Mrs. de Lorm the day before her body was found.

AMBULANCE CARRYING PATIENT IS STALLED

The Woburn police ambulance became stalled on Warren avenue while conveying a patient to the Choate Memorial Hospital, causing a delay of more than forty minutes. The ambulance was finally towed to the hospital by the automobile of Chief McAdams of the fire department. The Woburn City Council recently turned down an order for an appropriation for a more powerful machine.

WARNS AGAINST SALE OF LIBERTY BONDS

The selling of Liberty Bonds is "bad business judgment," according to Schuyler F. Herron, educational director of the savings division of the First Federal Reserve District, who spoke before a meeting of the Boston school principles at the school committee rooms on Mason street. "The general sale of the bonds," he said, "is a denial of the co-operation which all should share in meeting present economic problems. If kept they will certainly be paid at par when they mature. Meanwhile they are a sound investment."

Filene's—built on Value: growing on Value!

JUST AS Filene's grew from a little store on Winter Street because New England folks found that "their dollars went farther at Filene's": the Filene store is growing today faster than ever because more and more people are finding "that their dollars go farther here." New England folks want the new things: they want things that will last; they want service, reliability, their money back if anything goes wrong; but most of all they want VALUE—real honest-to-goodness value for every dollar they spend. And it is a combination of these virtues summed up in Filene better-value-giving that explains why today Filene's is growing faster than at any time in its history.

Another example of what the Filene quest for Better Values unearths!

Congress Hears Bitter Charges of Neglect of Soldiers From M. J. Margolis

Washington, April 7. — "Prussian" discipline and improper care of former American soldiers in government hospitals were charged in a letter from M. J. Margolis, read into the Congressional Record by Representative Martin D. Madden, Republican, of Illinois.

Margolis said he was an executive of the Bureau for Returning Soldiers, Sailors and Marines, of which Major-General Leonard Wood is the chairman, and the letter was written on the stationery of that organization.

Margolis urged "immediate action by Congress." Representative Madden stated he was starting a personal investigation.

"I have been with the above bureau since its opening in an executive position," Margolis said. "I have personally interviewed 15,000 returned service men and therefore have grounds for my statements.

DISCHARGE CRIPPLES "CURED."

"During this time I have come across hundreds of cases where men had been discharged from Government hospitals as 'cured,' but were unable to work and in most cases complained that they were still ill and unable to work. These reports were investigated at different times, but it appears that the investigations were made simply by walking through the hospitals and finding clean rooms and a disciplined force and everybody seemed contented. No patient was personally approached, but still the complaints of the men kept coming in.

"Men who were homeless, penniless and in some cases crippled were turned out of these hospitals to shift for themselves."

He cited the case of his brother who entered a hospital for an operation on his feet, made necessary by the mud and water of the trenches, and an injured ear, and on suggestion of the doctors to have his tonsils removed. He received his first medical treatment seven weeks later.

"Since he was operated upon," continued the letter, "he has had but few visits from a doctor, and each time they simply glanced at his feet. Thus he was compelled to bathe and bandage his own feet. On March 20 he was told he was 'cured,' and that he must now go home.

"Dumbfounded he tried to show them that his feet were in no condition to have his shoes on them, and that his left toe seemed paralyzed. They told him that he was wrong, and that he had to get out of the hospital the next day. They did not even furnish an ambulance. They offered him a discharge stating that he was improved, but he refused it, as he knew that he was worse off than when he came in the hospital. They told him that if he would not go out they would call the police."

SAYS COLONEL DISCOURTEOUS.

The writer says he took the matter up with Colonel Charles Banks. The latter said, according to the writer, that "he was powerless" to do anything and that he had several cases like that one. The reason for this, he said, was that Colonel C. O. Cobb, who has charge of the United States Public Health Service No. 2, "refused to take orders from him."

Margolis said he made a personal investigation of the hospital.

"Colonel C. O. Cobb was very discourteous and would not speak to me," he declared. "The rest of the staff follows Colonel Cobb, and it was useless to talk to them."

An act was staged in the boarding house scene of "Thirty-nine East" on the stage of the Wilbur Theatre that was never staged before and probably never will be again.

Frank M. Hoyt, who came to Boston eight weeks ago as manager of the comedy which has been running at the Wilbur for two months, and simultaneously was appointed by the Messrs. Shubert as resident manager of the house, was married to Miss Grace Kurth of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Immediately following the ceremony the members of the "39 East" cast, headed by Henry Hull and Constance Binney, gave the couple a wedding breakfast on the stage of the Wilbur with the appropriate setting of the famous boarding house scene of this play. The gay wedding party sat at the same tables and used Hoyt will remain as manager of the Wilbur Theatre after the departure of "39 East."

The newly married couple were presented by Henry Hull, in behalf of the company, with a silver platter and serving dishes. Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt will make Boston their home as

Are The Years Hitting You Hard?

The Man Who Builds Up His Health and Keeps His Blood Rich In Strength-Giving Iron Is the Man Whose Energy and Vigor Defy the Advancing Years—Physician Tells

How Nuxated Iron Helps to Make the Red Blood Which Fights Back Signs of Old Age

Under the sledge-hammer blows of time many a man finds his strength and endurance failing and his constitution losing its power to fight off illness, simply because his blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. Too soon such a man finds the gray hairs coming; his stomach is often out of order, he shivers in the cold when red-blooded men go striding by rejoicing in the crisp air, he lies awake for hours at night and in the morning he wakes tired and low-spirited. Perhaps he realizes that the years are hitting him below the belt; perhaps he sometimes says: "I must be getting old." Yet these signs of age, due to failing iron in the blood, may often disappear when the blood is strengthened with organic iron—Nuxated Iron—in the opinion of Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author, who has made the following statement:

"My experience has taught me that many a man is ageing too fast merely because his blood is getting pale and anaemic. The nervous strain of modern life robs the blood of the iron which is necessary to health; the blood is simply starving for want of iron. Blood without iron is like a man without hands. The man cannot feed himself nor do his work, and similarly, blood without iron cannot feed itself from the food entering through the stomach, nor can it carry the oxygen from the lungs to the tissues. Pills, from the lungs to the tissues. Pills, from the purples of the blood do this work; and iron is necessary to iron them in condition.

"If a man's red corpuscles lose their iron and he becomes pale, weak and run-down, I urge him to build up his strength with Nuxated Iron. Many a time I have seen patients' strength increase and lose that aged, careworn appearance after they had taken Nuxated Iron only two weeks, for the best blood-building, blood getting old, because he no longer feels old.

"Nuxated Iron consists of organic iron in its purest form, combined with other blood-building ingredients. I have found nothing to equal it as a blood tonic and body-builder. Consider it my conviction that I urge all physicians to prescribe it for cases of blood-weakness, for I believe that many people who are run-down, pale and old before his time to get a bottle of genuine Nuxated Iron and follow the directions on the bottle. I am confident that in practically nine cases out of ten the results will exceed his most favorable expectations.

"I have used Nuxated Iron widely in my own practice in most severe, aggravated conditions with unfailing results. I have ordered many other physicians to give it a trial, all of whom have given me most surprising reports in regard to its great power as a health and strength builder."

Nuxated Iron is the remedy that Paderewski, Master Pianist and maker of statesmen Poland used to help rebuild his wasted forces when he was weakened and run-down by overwork. Nuxated Iron has been used and endorsed by such prominent men of affairs as United States Judge O. W. Atkinson, former Secretary of State, Wm. J. Bryan, Governor Frederick W. Plaisted of West Virginia; Charles A. Towne, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential Nominee, and many others. When people like these publicly endorse Nuxated Iron, you may be sure that it does bring building results, strength and endurance that are almost magical. Nuxated Iron is not a patent nostrum, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make the head ache nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund the money paid. Nuxated Iron is now supplied in three convenient forms, Nuxated Iron Tablets, Nuxated Iron Capsules and Nuxated Iron Pellets.

Like a Pigmy Battling With Giants

the man whose blood is weak in iron is clubbed and beaten by the years; but the man whose blood flows rich, pure, filled with strength-giving iron, fights back the attacks of time and goes through life with a smile, self-reliant and fearless. He is the kind of man Nuxated Iron helps to make

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Want Pink Cheeks—Red Lips?

Some unfortunate men and women are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is—there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The fault is flabby, too. Well known physicians assert that the regular administration for a few months, of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration, obtain from any of the best apothecary shops.—Advertisement.

WOMEN RESENT PASTOR'S SLUR

New York Welfare Workers Deny Straton's Charges Against Sex

New York, April 7.—A number of women, who have been active in welfare work, disagreed with the view of the Rev. John Roach Straton that "our women have become a cigarette-smoking, half-clothed and loose-lived lot."

Mrs. John Francis Tawger, formerly president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, said: "Dr. Straton's assertion is disgusting and not worthy of being dignified by a reply. He should pay more attention to his own congregation and devote himself to the pulpit, instead of pulling down."

"SLANDERS DECENT WOMEN."

Mrs. Leonore Wickes of the W. C. T. U. said that while Dr. Straton may have seen the things he said he did in a tour of the Tenderloin, he went too far when he declared that the life of women in general has deteriorated morally.

Mrs. Robert Francis Cartwright declared the statement was a slander against the decent women of New York.

Ellen O'Grady, deputy police commissioner, who has had twenty-eight women detectives and matrons supervising cabarets and dance halls, said that there was a good deal of truth in the charges of Dr. Straton that vice flaunts itself along Broadway, but that it had been found difficult to effectively regulate public amusements.

She declared that the only possible solution is for dance places to be placed under municipal control.

SHIMMY SHAKERS STOP.

"In places where indecent dancing is tolerated the presence of a woman detective is known as soon as she appears," said Mrs. O'Grady. "Then the tip goes around and the shimmy shakers stop. Another difficulty lies in the fact that my operatives cannot step onto the floor when they see an offending couple. That would cause a disturbance. My operatives are compelled, therefore, to appeal to the managers of the places and put it up to them to stop indecent dancing."

Mrs. O'Grady said that she agreed with Mr. Straton that many things once considered to be mortal sins are now looked upon by many as mere frivolities.

TWO HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGES IN U. S. COURT

Abraham Cellier of Derby street, Salem, was arraigned before Commissioner Hayes in U. S. District Court today, charged with selling whiskey to a liquor enforcement officer and to a liquor enforcement officer and was held in $500 bonds for a hearing, April 27. Max Perry of Harrison avenue, was held for the Grand Jury, in similar bail, for having liquor in his possession.

ARRESTED IN COURT AS SMUGGLERS OF LIQUOR

James A. Robinson, captain of the S. S. St. Charles, now docked at East Boston, and Richard A. Lawrence, one of the crew, were arrested today by Federal officials charged with smuggling liquor. The arrests were made at the East Boston Court after Lawrence had been found guilty of stealing a quart of brandy belonging to the captain.

ARLINGTON FIRE AUTO DAMAGED IN CRASH

Lexington, April 7.—On its way to a brush fire, Combination C of the Central Fire Station collided with an electric light pole on Woburn street, bending the right mudguard and stealing gear of the machine. Roy A. Cook was driving the truck. No one was injured. The fire burned valuable timber on the farm of Howard M. Munroe on the

Clink of Coin Stirs Deaf Stowaway

New York, April 7.—The clink of a coin aroused the interest of the Ellis Island stowaway who has been unapproachable by any of the means of communication within the power of the immigration officials since he arrived on the Pannonia from southeastern Europe. He neither speaks nor hears, reads or writes, or recognizes the signs of the alphabet of a dozen tongues.

His invariable attitude has been absolute lack of interest in all things going on around him. Somebody tossed a half dollar on the floor behind him. He turned around to look at it.

"Money talks," said an interpreter who had found him unresponsive in a half-dozen dialects in use in the Balkans.

SHOOTS GIRL AND SELF IN RAGE

Bridgewater Man Angered When Told Love Had Failed; Held in $5000

Following the shooting of Miss Lillian Hatchfield of No. 149 Broad street, Whitman, and Francesco, Samuel Ripley of No. 460 Main street, Bridgewater, was today arraigned in the district court at Abington, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $5,000 for a hearing April 21.

Miss Hatchfield's name is on the danger list at the Brockton Hospital. She is 23, and Ripley 24. Ripley is suffering from a wound, self-inflicted, in the left hip, from a shot which he fired after turning his weapon on the girl.

The shooting occurred in the parlor of the girl's home. Her parents, attracted to the scene when they heard the shots fired, found their daughter lying on the floor with an ugly bullet wound in the abdomen.

Ripley made a second attempt to take his life while the victim's parents stood in the parlor. The girl's father prevented his act after he grappled with him. Ripley, however, succeeded in firing one shot from his revolver, which passed through his coat and imbedded in the wall.

According to the police the shooting resulted when Miss Hatchfield told Ripley that their friendship must end.

The Whitman authorities assert that Ripley was married to a chorus girl eight years ago and that he was divorced two years ago.

WILL GIVE RECEPTION TO RETIRING PASTOR

'FIRST LADY'S' AIDE AT CAPE

White House Domestic Manager Delighted After Inspecting Crane Estate

Woods Hole, April 7.—The Crane estate at Juniper point here, which is to be the Summer White House, was inspected by the "highest household official in the nation" today, and passed the test satisfactorily. Mrs. I. A. Jaffray, who has been the White House manager for eleven years, made a flying trip to the handsome Cape estate, and surveyed the whole establishment from lodge to bungalow and from cupola to cellar.

"It's a remarkably beautiful place," she said, when she had finished her inspection. "I haven't a doubt but that the President and Mrs. Wilson will be delighted with it. Of course the house is not large, but we can arrange for that without any trouble."

When asked if changes would be made in the house the distinguished visitor, Mrs. Jaffray, expressed surprise.

"Why no," she said, "it will be hardly likely that there will be any changes made. Such changes might not be pleasing to the owners, and the President is simply leasing the place for the Summer."

Mrs. Jaffray arrived early in the day and afterward left for Washington to report to Mrs. Wilson. She would say nothing of the housekeeping facilities, which are of so much importance to the "First Lady of the Land," except to express her satisfaction with everything that had been done.

Mrs. Charles R. Crane, who has been down here for a few days seeing that the house is in proper order, left just before the arrival of Mrs. Jaffray, to join her husband on his long trip to China, where he will take up his duties as United States Minister.

What particularly took Mrs. Jaffray's eye was the number of bedrooms—there are eleven of them—each furnished with twin beds in white wood. The tasteful choice that had been made in the beautiful rugs and hangings were also a joy to Mrs. Jaffray's housewifely eye.

ALLEN CURB BILL DIES IN SENATE

Attorney-General Denied Additional Power to Probe Brokers' Transactions

Without division, the Senate refused on a voice vote, to concur with the House, in suspending the rules, in order to admit for consideration at the present session, the bill of Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, designed to give him additional power to investigate transactions of curb brokers and other dealers in securities.

With Senator McLane of Fall River in the chair, Clerk Coolidge read a report of the rules committee, signed by Senator McLane, that the Senate should concur in the suspension. The question was put and Senator McLane declared that the "noes" had it, and the bill was referred to the next General Court.

The members of the Rules Committee are: President McKnight, Senator McLane of Fall River, Senator Prescott of Grafton, Senator Hardy of Fitchburg, Senator Dahlberg of Brockton, Senator Gibbs of Waltham and Senator Foley of Boston.

ALLEN SURPRISED.

When informed that the Senate had killed his bill, Attorney-General Allen said:

"I am surprised to learn of the action of the Senate in killing the bill to give this department the necessary additional power to investigate conditions under which the investing public is being exploited.

"At the present time securities are being sold upon representations that the properties represented are earning and paying dividends, although in a number of instances there is serious question whether the companies are not paying dividends, not out of earnings, but with the money received from the sale of stock.

"Criminal proceedings cannot properly be brought upon suspicion and unless sufficient power is given to make it possible to ascertain the facts which will disclose whether or not false representations are being made in the sale of stocks or other securities this department cannot take the action necessary to prevent companies entering this State with their salesmen to sell stock which may have no property value.

WANTS RECONSIDERATION.

"Stocks are now being sold to the public which have a par value of one cent per share, yet they are being sold at from ten to twenty cents per share. No disclosure is made of the par value. The result is that one hundred shares of stock may be sold at twenty cents per share, costing the purchaser $20 for stock having a par value of $1. The purchaser is told that the stock is paying a dividend of twenty per cent., but this means twenty per cent. on the par value, and not on the purchase price. The result is that the purchaser will receive an annual dividend of twenty cents, or one per cent. on his investment, instead of the twenty per cent. he is led to expect.

"I hope much that the Senate, in the interest of the public, will reconsider its action and at least permit the bill to be considered on its merits by the committee on the judiciary, to which it was referred by the House."

Representative B. Loring Young of Weston said: "I regret exceedingly that the Senate has seen fit to kill the bill which I introduced, at the request of Attorney-General Allen. I introduced it because the attorney-general informed me that it was necessary for the proper conduct of the work of his office. It is the public that will suffer as a result of the action by the Senate."

Members All Over State Are Buying Bonds; Rose Croix Subscribes $100

Members of the various councils of the Knights of Columbus are now rallying state-wide to the support of the bond certificate drive being conducted by the American Commission on Irish Independence in Massachusetts.

Rose Croix Council No. 1321 voted to buy a $100 bond and a check for that amount will be forwarded to the Boston directors of the fund and credited to the Ward 12 committee, because the organization meets in that section of the city.

SOMERVILLE JUBILATION

A jubilation meeting will be held in St. Anne's Parochial School Hall, Somerville, tonight, under the auspices of the General John Cbullivan Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom. Linehan, of the Middlesex county board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

The Irish bond quota in Somerville was $10,000 and Thomas J. Nolan who is also a speaker tonight's meeting, reports that the "city is over the top by $15,000 additional."

Two bond drive meetings are scheduled to be held in Malden, one Thursday evening in Hibernian Hall and the other in Knights of Columbus Hall Sunday night. At the latter meeting former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston is scheduled to speak.

Roslindale citizens of Irish birth or extraction are invited to attend a meeting in the interest of the bond drive tonight in the Knights of Columbus Building.

Lift Off Corns!

Apply a few drops of "Freezone" upon that old, bothersome corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting. Then shortly you lift it right off, root and all, without pain or soreness.

YOU HAVE A BEAUTIFUL FACE BUT YOUR NOSE?

BEFORE AFTER

IN THIS DAY AND AGE attention to your appearance is an absolute necessity if you expect to make the most out of life. Not only should you wish to appear as attractive as possible, for your own self satisfaction, which in some way never pays returns, but you will find the world in general will treat you better. The old saying of "handsome is as handsome does" is all bosh. Plenty of ugly people are successful, while lots of handsome ones are failures. Why? Because the former realize that what is on the inside counts for more than what is on the outside. Therefore they are not satisfied with their appearance, but do something to improve it. Perhaps you are one of these people. If so, let me help you. Perhaps you are not, but you know you are homely. Why suffer from that handicap when it can be overcome? Why be ashamed of your nose when it will injure your welfare? Have the impression you constantly make rests the failure or success of your life. Which is to be your ultimate destiny? My new nose-shaper, "TRIAD-O" (Model 24), corrects nose-ills without pain or inconvenience. It is practical and does not interfere with one's daily occupation. Being worn at night. Results lasting for your lifetime, which help you live to normal. Hundreds have written me that it has not disappointed them in the least. Why not you? PUMP MYSTERY IN DEAN CASE

Water Works Head Visited Nearby Farm Two Days After Murder

East Jaffrey, N. H., April 7.—Postmaster Russell B. Henchman, while superintendent of the water works, made a visit to the pump on the farm of Peter Proctor, two days after the murder of Dr. William Reidrick Dean which mistified the members of the Proctor household, when Mr. Henchman never explained the incident.

It will be remembered that Henchman swept the barn on the Dean estate and ran off the water to the main house that had been occupied by Laurence Maene Colfelt, Jr., before a proper inspection of the premises had been made. The selectmen rejected this. They said Henchman had no right to do it and probably destroyed clues.

BLUNDER AGGRAVATED.

County Solicitor Roy M. Pickard and Attorney-General Oscar L. Young later assumed responsibility for what Henchman did, claiming they had ordered it, but the selectmen argued that Henchman did it before the officials arrived on the scene. The selectmen and relatives of Dr. Dean said that if Pickard and Young did sanction it they had no right to do so, and that their approval aggravated the blunder.

Some weeks after the murder of Dr. Dean, Mr. Proctor's sons, Wesley and Malcolm, found three suspicious bundles in the wood lot of their farm at points near the well whence they could easily have been thrown from a passing automobile. In fact there were so many mysterious bundles discovered that Mr. Proctor thought somebody might be trying to rewing suspicion his way.

The strip from a woman's dress, which was bloodstained and which was creased as though it had been used as a head bandage, was found in one of the bundles on the Proctor farm and the other bundles held towels and strips of curtain. One bundle was wrapped in a newspaper dated September 13, 1918, which was a month later than the murder.

REFUSED EXPLANATIONS.

"At noon on August 15, 1918," said Mr. Proctor, "Mr. Whittier was getting water at the pump, which didn't seem to be working very well. While she was at the pump Mr. Henchman came to the house. He asked her how the pump was working. She told him it was in poor shape. He told her to go into the house and get a piece of leather and he would fix it.

"She went in and found a piece of rubber and was astonished when she came out to find that Mr. Henchman had ripped all the planking which he put back. He had never visited the pump before and did not explain how he happened to call that day. We all thought it strange."

The Selectmen are investigating this incident.

FOUR NOTED PIANISTS GIVE NOVEL CONCERT

The spectacle of four very well known pianists appearing on the same platform on the same evening drew an audience of good size to Symphony Hall last night.

The players were Godowsky, Ornstein, Copeland and Levitzki, all of them famed for different styles and striking individuality. Copeland is a Bostonian, a specialist in Debussy. Ornstein a remarkable individual with a bizarre method and Godowski and Levitzki fine all-round pianists.

The purpose of the concert was to demonstrate the Ampico, a player piano which records pianists as a graphophone records singers and instrumentalists. We have heard much of autograph music rolls recently, but few companies would dare subject their instruments to such a test as this. You heard the pianist play a composition and then the Ampico played it. It would take a very marvelous critic to tell which was which with his eyes shut.

It certainly was a most convincing way to demonstrate an instrument, and the presence of four such fine performers as these on the platform was a sufficient indorsement of the artistic value of the Ampico to those who couldn t believe the evidence of their own ears.

Many Foreign Speed Kings Entered for Indianapolis Race May 31

Indianapolis, April 7.—For the first time in speedway history, European contestants promise to outnumber representatives of the United States in an Indianapolis 500-mile race.

W. F. Bradley, Paris representative of the Indianapolis track, reports an unprecedented activity on the part of foreign aspirants for first honors in the eighth Indianapolis event, to be run Monday, May 31, and predicts a possible total of eighteen entrants from abroad before the entries close.

3 FRENCH TEAMS DUE.

France, he states, will be represented with three and possibly four teams, Belgium with at least one and possibly two, and Italy and England with one each, embracing in their ranks all the master drivers of the old world together with several newcomers who have never raced away from home.

The United States to date has succeeded in rolling up a total of only ten entries, though a fresh crop is expected to materialize in the near future. Last year at this time American entries totalled only eight and when the barrier lifted on the field of starters there were thirty-three honest-to-goodness cars in the line.

ONLY NEW CARS ALLOWED.

This year, under the new speedway rules calling for entirely new cars of 183 cubic inches piston displacement, it is not thought that the last minute rush will be as great, and concern is being expressed in some quarters that when the final count is made the European field will be found to outnumber that of the American defenders.

GEO. J. CHABOT JOINS McFARLAND SERVICE

Mr. Chabot is too well-known to need any introduction, but I am greatly pleased that I can announce to the trade that I have him with me as my service manager. Our service department is in the same building."

Garford Truck Wins U. S. War Citation

George Chapman, local manager of the Garford Motor Truck Company, has just received a telegram from the factory notifying him that Garford had received a citation from the United States government for its material aid in helping to win the war.

"This certainly was a very gratifying piece of news" said Mr. Chapman today, "as it shows that the work done by motor trucks in the great World War is being officially recognized and honored

"Garford trucks are used in every branch of commercial activity, and the experience we had during the strenuous days of pre-war activity and during actual hostilities has been used to advantage by our engineers. We believe that Garford today represents the highest type of commercial vehicle in its class

ASK MR. FIXIT

Mr. Fixit kindly answer my questions through your columns. I have a Ford touring car. I have the carburetor adjusted as near perfect as the factory intended it to be, also the timer, but I have not also setting of the spark plugs. Now, when I start the car it takes about five minutes before it will start, then it runs fine. Now, when I stop it for a few minutes and start again it starts the car at once. Now, when I start the car I put it in low and run it about five minutes before I put on the car? E. F. H.

Your car seems to work very well and I can see no reason for the trouble you have in starting. Probably your spark is not a hot one at slow speed and when you are going down hill the spark is taken off the motor and the engine is run with too much gas and misses. Try and keep your gas for slow speed, also for starting. The principle of the Ford is very good, but it is not a car for speed. It would seem to us to be a good thing for a motor.

Dear Mr. Fixit: Kindly tell me the year No. 4 Ford touring motor was made and where I can get a crankshaft either new or second hand. Also second hand fenders. W. H. H.

Mass.

That is probably a late 1918 model. Write the Ford Motor Car Company, Waltham, Mass., section of Mr. Conners and he can tell you if you can get a second hand crankshaft. Your car has new style fenders.

Mr. Fixit: Please settle me bet how the motor runs. Does motor run backward in order to get the two mechanisms always going the same way? Or does the motor run forward in the reverse between fan and wheel? That is the latest point of dispute. Thanks. F. A. L.

Both statements given as 32x4, for illustration, are as follows: Thirty-two inches is the diameter of the tire and four inches is the cross-section measured by calipers. The diameter of rim on which tire is mounted is the sum of twice the cross-section of the tire and the diameter of the wheel. It will be remembered that inside any two tires of different makes will usually stretch the same. The various "weather treads" make a difference here.

Your question is made of a closely woven "duck" cloth, so to speak, which is impregnated with rubber. You can see the water quite readily. The cord tire is made of small strands of a coarser weave than it is and this is impregnated with rubber also. Both tires are good tires and we have had no experience in the field with either that we can answer in this column. Any tire customer will readily give the advantages of each kind.

Mr. Fixit: I am anxious to obtain an instruction book for a Fisher 6-cylinder touring car, model 1919. Can you help me? Also, there will not grind any more. Can you help me? Also, there will not grind any more. Can you help me? Also, there will not grind any more

FULLERTON SHOWS UP CHANCES OF NATIONAL LEAGUERS FOR 1920

PIRATES, CARDS AND DODGERS WEAK BEHIND BAT

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Here is where the chances of three National League teams—St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Brooklyn—teams that have shown most extraordinary strength in their regular line-ups seem to go a-glimmering.

There is a saying in baseball that no team ever has won a championship without an extraordinary good catcher. This is perhaps an exaggeration, but not much of one. Until we came to the dope on the National League catchers it looked as if the Pirates, Cards and, to a lesser degree, Brooklyn had gained so much in strength that they were real pennant factors.

The study of the catching departments, however, causes their stock to take a sudden slump. Nor does there seem to be much of a chance for any one of these three teams to show much of an improvement in the catching department.

With only the pitchers left to study, it looks as if the Pirates, Cards and Brooklyn must be counted out of the dope champ'ship unless in the figures on the pitchers, they show most extraordinary strength.

Chicago, with Bill Killifer at the helm during about 135 and perhaps more of the 154 games, certainly shows the class of the National League. You must remember, also, that a strong catcher not only gains points for himself but adds to the strength of the pitching department, enormously.

Brooklyn which in the rough dope appears to have one of the best pitching staffs in the country, certainly will lose much ground because of the fact that the catching talent is mediocre and shows little promise of improving. St. Louis, which needs pitching above all things, shows only a fair catching staff and the weakness in catching will hurt the pitching.

Oddly enough, the Giants, a team which has for years shown chronic weakness in catching, looms up in second place. This, of course, is due to the fact that the Giants in their endeavor to purchase a pennant last year, secured the services of Gowdy and Snyder, two of the first water veterans. In inverse ratio the strength of the Giant pitching staff must show improvement.

The World's Champion Reds rank third in their catching department due to Red Ferry. Moran can use his catchers so as to get the best results from all. Instead of being as weak as the weakest point of each catcher, Moran's staff as a whole seems to distribute itself so that he can utilize the strongest feature of each man's work.

There is considerable trouble in doping the strength of the Braves in the catching department. Gowdy is the best catcher. With some teams he might be a great one. With Boston his figures are not justified.

The Phils have an extraordinary amount of strength in the catching department, but I feel, from the way that if that team figured a little higher in defensive strength, the catching figure would be much more imposing. In other words, the catchers lose points in value because of the perfect effect of the strength in other positions. It is discouraging work for good catchers to work for pitchers. If the Phils had a real chance, and the conditions were not so discouraging, the catching strength would show greater in the figures.

In the next article we will study the American League pitchers. Pitching, as you know, is 50 per cent. of the total defensive strength of any team. Therefore the study of the pitchers takes on great importance in doping. The figures are important enough to turn a second division team into a pennant prospect

Three on Hockey Team and Two in Skating Events Leave for Antwerp

New York, April 7.—Uncle Sam started his big drive to win the seventh Olympiad today, with the sailing of the American hockey and figure skating teams for Antwerp.

America's first Olympic expeditionary force was made up of eleven hockey players, two figure skaters and three-man Fellowes, president of the International Skating Union, who will manage the American exponents of ice sports in Belgium. The party sailed on the Finland, the vessel that carried the entire American Olympic team to Stockholm for the sixth renewal of the games in 1912.

Richard Button, W. Nilles and Miss Theresa Weld, both of Boston, are America's entrants in the single and double figure skating events. These skaters hold the national doubles championship. Miles is also well known as a tennis player.

The hockey players making the trip are: Goal, Raymond L. Bonney (Pittsburgh); point, Alvan Tuck, Boston; coverpoint, Frank Goheen, St. Paul, left wing, A. J. Conroy, St. Paul; right wing, Joe McCormick (captain), Pittsburgh; rover, Herb Drury, Pittsburgh; centre, George Owen, Boston.

The alternates include Cyril Wellenheyer, St. Paul; goal, J. F. Fitzgerald, St. Paul; point or cover point; Larry McCormick, Pittsburgh, centre, and Frank Synott, Boston, forward.

Cornelius Fellowes was chosen manager of the ice teams at the eleventh hour on account of illness in the family of Hoy D. Schooley of Pittsburgh, which prevented him from accompanying the party.

The hockey and skating events at Antwerp are scheduled to commence April 20 and the American entrants expect to arrive on Belgian soil in time to practice three or four days before entering competition.

"BOSTON MADE" CIGAR WEEK

Let Every Man Pledge Himself to Smoke Boston-Made Cigars This Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Tomorrow every smoker is asked to Boom—Boost—Boston, by buying, smoking and treating his friends to Boston-made cigars.

The Boston American says Boston has lost some of her industries and the population is decreasing in large numbers.

This smokers' drive is to get every one to try Boston-made cigars. They are all hand made and this means a perfect made cigar.

Do this and you will increase Boston's business, because three former Boston cigar manufacturers have removed their factories from Boston and have changed from hand-made cigars to machine-made cigars. Remember the days—this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Buy and smoke only Boston-made cigars. Have the pleasure that will come from doing your part.

You can tell what brands of cigars are made in Boston by the light blue union label (copy shown below), which is pasted on each box of Boston-made cigars. Ask to see the box if in doubt. Work to make this week-end drive a huge success. The cigar dealers, too, are enthusiastic. They know well the good qualities of Boston-made cigars.

Wintry Weather in West Virginia Holds Up Series for Another Day

By NICK FLATLEY.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 7.—Both Braves and Tigers are making valiant efforts to get in out of the wet, the snow and the rain, but are not meeting with much success as they bump from town to town. Unless their luck changes they seem to be in for another of those blustery days that make baseball impossible with the shortern snorting down from the mountains.

The boys who inhabit these parts are very anxious to see some big league baseball. Because, probably, a weather report is good enough of its kind. According to the prospects, the temperature in West Virginia is never dared to fall below fifty degrees, but according to your correspondent the books are all wrong.

The two teams defeated the high cost of living by having another lunch at the Rotary Club, at Parkersburg. The players have been tendered more banquets and things than you can shake a stick at, and in being made as pleasant for them as possible, things and things.

So far as baseball goes, both Stallings and Jennings are anxious to get over with their game more or less and land were to put on the game today if there was any possible chance of letting them. But there is any too good condition, he admits, while Stallings is satisfied that the victory spirit of the Braves will carry them along.

With only three games remaining in the Tigers have a scant chance of reaching the honors in this far-flung series. One more postponement and the best they can do is to tie things up) one more defeat and it's settled for the Braves.

'BULLET JOE' IS BACK IN FORM

Smoke on Fast Ball Fooled Giants Badly—Red Sox Win, 6 to 0

By JACK CONWAY.

Raleigh, N. C., April 7.—Joe Bush has proved to Manager Barrow that he still has plenty of smoke on his fast one. Joe is today all smiles as a result of the bangup showing he made in the game against the Giants at Winston-Salem. It was the speed ball pitcher's first start since last Summer and he showed that his lame arm is in good condition once more. During the four innings that he was in the box, Bush held the Mcgraw men scoreless while they only managed to touch out two hits. One of these was an infield tap to third by Gonzales when the latter beat out by fast sprinting, while the other was a high fly to left which Menosky was unable to get as a result of bumping into a ladder which some thoughtless individual had left leaning against the fence.

Bush used his fast ball, while he also called a curve into play on several occasions. When the Giants would be expecting Joe to buzz one by, he would serve a slow ball.

The two New York hits came in the third inning which with a base on balls, filled the bags. Then just to show that he is back in 1918 form once more Bush struck out Fletcher, which retired the side.

Pennock took up the pitching burden beginning with the fifth inning. At the time the count was 4 to 0 in favor of Boston. The final score was 6 to 0. A home run by Walters was the bright part of the closing innings.

Harry Hooper made his third home run of the series and the fourth he has batted out this Spring. His initial home run was made against the Pirates at Hot Springs.

BOSTON RETAINS ONE TITLE

Eagan Is Defeated Twice in National Bouts—Lagonia Only Champ Repeating

THE NEW CHAMPIONS

108 pounds—A. J. DeVito, Paulist A. C., New York.
118 pounds — James Hutchinson, Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia.
125 pounds—Sol Leeman, Brooklyn A. A., New York.
135 pounds—Tommy Murphy, Kansas City A. C., Kansas City.
145 pounds — Jack Schoendoerf, Milwaukee A. C., Milwaukee.
158 pounds—Sam Lagonia, Bronxdale A. C., New York.
175 pounds—John Burke, Willow A. C., Pittsburgh.
Heavyweight—Karl Wicks, Dorchester.

Boston retains one national amateur boxing title, the Lagonia. In this class, Karl Wicks of Dorchester came through by winning in three rounds over Edward Eagan of Yale University, and stopping Joe Gerous of this city in the first session.

Eagan, who was picked to win in this division after his easy victory over Frank Gragher of Pittsburgh in the Monday night trial bout, was also beaten in the 175-pound class, Joe Burke of Pittsburgh knocking down the Yale man twice in their three-round bout. Eagan put up a game fight, but was no match for the hard-hitting protege of Champion Jack Dempsey.

Burke was also entered in the heavyweight class, but was obliged to default to Gerous because of a broken hand.

A. J. De Vito of the Paulist A. C., New York, proved far too clever for William Cohen of the St. Christopher A. C., New York, in the final bout of the 108-pound class and was awarded the title.

James Hutchinson of the Meadowbrook Club, Philadelphia, had a walk-on in the 118-pound class, but the 110-pound final bout. It was a good battle all the way.

Sol Seeman of the Brooklyn A. A., New York, won over William A. Parker of Philadelphia in the final bout in the 125-pound class. In the 135-pound class Tommy Murphy of the Kansas City A. C. was awarded the title, while he was prone on the floor in the third round of his bout with R. Pontreau of the St. Christopher Club of New York. The verdict aroused considerable comment.

Jack Schroendoerf of Milwaukee captured the 145-pound title from Roy Helton of Kansas City in a slow four-round bout. Schroendoerf was sent to the floor in the first round but evened up matters in the second and third rounds, necessitating the extra session.

The 158-pound title was awarded to Sam Lagonia of the Bronxdale A. C., New York, who easily defeated Frank Graeber of Pittsburgh. Lagonia is the only 1919 champion to retain his title.

TAD'S TIDBITS

THE GREATEST FIGHTER HE EVER SAW.

Georges Carpentier squinted at the sky for quite a few minutes the other day when we asked him who was the greatest fighter he ever saw.

Georges has seen quite a few. He figured hitters, clever guys and tough birds over in his mind before he'd tell us the star of the game.

Finally, after much scratching of the skull, squinting and wondering, he told the interpreter to say that the greatest of all ringmen in his opinion was Jem Driscoll.

"I saw him years ago when he was at his best," said the French hero. "He was my ideal. What footwork, what blocking and ducking! Oh, la, la! What a nice hitter! He seemed to set his man nicely and then punch so prettily. Things were so easy with him. I remember that I tried to box with Driscoll's sister right after I saw him go the first time. My feet seemed as though they were held down. My head didn't bob in and out as his did, and my hands couldn't seem to get the speed that his had. Oh, he was pretty. I never have seen anything like him since. His opponents seemed so slow.

learned so much from him because I admired him so. He was a very "Who was next best fighter? Ah. Willie Lewis. Yes, a marvel. I fast, clever boy with a very dangerous punch. Lewis to me, was another ring marvel.

"Who was next? Oh, that Dixie Kid from America. A colored welterweight. He was as dangerous as a hand grenade. Tough? Yes, yes, very tough. I understand that years ago he beat the great Walcott. I can't believe it. I boxed with him and he was a terror."

Mrs. Carpentier Couldn't Believe It.

When Jim Corbett met Georges Carpentier the other day Mrs. Carpentier was right by her husband's side.

Mr. Corbett, who is known in movie circles as "The child of the screen," shook Carpentier's hand heartily, laughed, stepped around like a colt and kidded just as though he knew every word of French that the newcomer pulled.

Mrs. Carpentier, standing close to the interpreter, asked Corbett's age.

Corbett heard something about age and then smilingly said to the pretty madame:

"Why, I was champion of the world before your husband was born. I beat Sullivan in 1892, and Georges wasn't born until two years later."

When Mrs. Carpentier was told this she laughed heartily, thinking it a joke.

It was no kid, that.

Here's a Bloke with the Sledge Out.

Listen Tad—I was over to the club the other night and saw Barry Norton and Tony Forman, who, I think, is the greatest fighter that ever lived. Tony is masquerading under the monicker of K. O. Andrews. He's a scream.

Who give would step as fast and flop as intelligently without getting corns on his head as our K. O. Andrews? He rounds the corners so fast he gets dust in his pockets besides getting a worm's-eye view of the attendance of the house. He's got Freg McKay looking like a selling plater in a stage race when it comes to hitting the boards. Sometimes he's on the bottom and sometimes the other feller's on top.

Hoping you will bet your money on the other fighter when he fights.

Wilson Is Picked to Defeat Reid

Boxing for thirty-six scheduled rounds with the New England middleweight championship hinging on the final twelve, is the card of the Fenway A. A. at Mechanics Building tonight.

Seldom if ever has a local fight club presented to its members such a fine all star card as that arranged by Ray Green, in which Al Calzone tackles Frank Tello, Paul Doyle meets Danny Ash, and Johnny Wilson clashes with Pal Reid.

Wilson who feels confident of gaining permanent possession of the New England middleweight belt by his bout with Reid, has set upwards of two weeks preparing himself for the bout and although Reid is a rugged boy and a most capable one with his fists, Wilson will rule the favorite for the deciding clash of the night.

Captures North and South Amateur Event, 5 and 4—Has Improved in Health

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Pinehurst, N. C., April 7.—Massachusetts did well at Pinehurst this year, ending things up with a win in the North and South amateur championship. Francis Ouimet, who won this event, outclassed the field of 295 starters. No one he met in the first division was able to give him a battle.

He had no trouble in winning the final round from Sam Graham. At the end of the first 18 holes Ouimet had a lead of five up and he won by a five and four margin. Graham played gamely, but he is not in quite the same class at Ouimet.

The visit here has done Ouimet much good. He did not look especially well upon his arrival, but the clear air and many rounds on the golf course have helped him. He declared that he felt fine and expected to be able to keep in condition for all of the big tournaments this year. He is, of course, anxious to be fit for the grind of the National amateur championship, which will be played in August.

This Day in History—April 7, 1920

THIS is the anniversary of the first use of black for mourning, when in 1498 Anne of Brittany appeared in that color out of respect to the memory of her father, Francis II., whose heiress she was. She married Charles VIII. and became Queen of France.

THE YOUNG DIANA

An Experiment of the Future

Story of Extraordinary Mystery, in Which the Heroine Holds Key to Youth and Beauty

By Marie Corelli

"OH, yes!—yes, of course!" murmured Diana absently.

"But nobody expects a very clever man to explain himself to his friends—or to the public. He must always do his work more or less alone."

"I agree" said the Marchesa. "And that is why I cannot understand the action of Dimitrius in advertising for an assistant—"

"Oh, has we done so," inquired Diana, indifferently.

"Yes—for a last couple of months he has put a most eccentric advertisement in many of the journals, seeking the services of an elderly woman as assistant or secretary—I don't know which. It's some odd new notion of his, and, I venture to think, rather a mistaken one—for if he will not trust a man student, how much less can he rely on an old woman?"

Diana laughed merrily—and her laughter was the prettiest ripple of music.

"Oh, yes!—of course! I see your meaning" she said. "You are quite right! But after all perhaps the elderly female is only wanted to add up accounts, or write down measurements or something of that kind—just ordinary routine work. Some lonely old spinster with no claims upon her might be glad of such a chance—"

Never Suited

"Are you discussing my advertisement?" interrupted Dimitrius suddenly, sending a glance and smile at Diana from the head of the table. "I have withdrawn it."

"Have you really?" said the Marchesa. "That is not to say you are suited?"

"Suited? Oh, no! I shall never be suited! It was a foolish quest, —and I ought to have known better"—his dark eyes sparkled mirthfully. "You see I had rather forgotten the fact that no woman cares to admit she is of 'mature years.'—I had also forgotten the well-known male formula that 'no woman can be trusted.' However, I have only lost a few hundred francs in my advertising—so I have nothing to regret except my own folly."

"Had you many applications?" inquired Professor Chauvet.

Dimitrius laughed.

"Only one" he answered, gaily. "And she was a poor lone lady who had lost all she thought worth living for. Of course she was—impossible—"

"Naturally" and the Professor nodded sagaciously—"She would be"—

"What was she like?" asked Diana, with an amused look.

"Like no woman I have ever seen" replied Dimitrius, smiling quizzically at her. "Mature, and fully ripened in her opinions,—fairly obstinate, and difficult to get rid of."

"I congratulate you on having succeeded!" said Farnese.

"Succeeded! In what way?"

"In having got rid of her"

"Oh, yes! But—I don't think she wanted to go!"

"No woman ever wants to go if there's a good looking bachelor with whom she has any chance to stay!" said the Baron Rouillon, expanding his shirt front and smiling largely all round the table. "The 'poor lone lady' must have taken your rejection of her services rather badly."

Narrow and Primitive

"That's the way most men would look at it," replied Dimitrius. "But, my dear Baron, I'm afraid we are rather narrow and primitive in our ideas of the fair sex—not to say conceited. It is quite our own notion that all women need us or find us desirable. Some women would much rather not be bored with us at all. One of the prettiest women I ever knew remained unmarried because, as she frankly said, she did not wish to be a housekeeper to any man or be bored by his perpetual company. There's something in it, you know! Every man has his own particular 'groove' in which he wants to run—and in his 'groove' he's apt to become monotonous and tiresome. That is why, when I advertised, I specified 'no woman of mature years,'—someone who has 'settled down,' and who would not find it wearisome to trot tamely alongside of my special 'groove,' but of course it was very absurd on my part to expect to find a woman of that sort who was at the same time well-educated and clever—"

"You should marry, my dear Dimitrius!—you should marry!" said the Baroness Rouillon, with a brilliant flash of fire in her fine eyes and an encouraging smile.

"Never, my dear Baroness!—never!" he replied, with emphasis. "I am capable of many things, but not of that most arrant stupidity! Were I to marry, my work would be ruined—I should become immersed in the domesticities of the kitchen and the nursery, living no life at the higher grade than the life of the farmyard or rabbit-warren. In my opinion, marriage is a mistake—and we must not argue such a point in the presence of a happily married couple like yourself and the Baron. Look at our excellent friend, Chauvet! He has never married."

"Thank God!" ejaculated the professor, devoutly—while everybody laughed. "Ah, you may laugh! But it is I who laugh last! When I see the unfortunate husband going out for a stroll with his wife and three or four screaming, jumping children, who behave like savages, not knowing what they want or where they wish to go, I bless my happy fate that I can do my ten miles a day alone, revelling in the beauty of the mountains and lakes, and enjoying my own thoughts in peace. Like Anriel, I have not married because I am afraid of disillusion!"

"But have you thought of the possible woman in the case?" asked Diana, sweetly and suddenly. "Might she not also suffer from 'disillusion' if you were her husband?"

Laughter again rang round the table—the professor rose, glass of wine in hand, and made Diana a solemn bow.

Renewed merriment rewarded this amende honorable on the part of Chauvet, who sat down well pleased with himself—and well pleased, too, with Diana, whom he considered quick-witted and clever, and whose smile when he had made his little speech had quite won him over.

CHAPTER X.

THAT first evening in the Chateau Fragonard taught Diana exactly what was expected of her. It was evident that both Dimitrius and his friends chose to assume that she was a friend of theirs, staying with them on a visit, and she realized that no one was supposed to offer any other explanation of her presence. The famous advertisement had been "withdrawn," and the doctor had plainly announced that he was "not suited," and that he had resigned all further direct or indirect care for the lady.

That he had some good reason for disguising the real facts of the case Diana felt sure, but she was quite satisfied to fall in with his method of action. The more so, when she discovered that the object of interest and curiosity to the Baroness Rouillon, who spared no effort to "draw her out" and gain some information as to her English home, her surroundings and ordinary associations. The Baroness had a clever and graceful way of cross-examining strangers through an assumption of friendliness, but Diana was equally clever and graceful in the art of "fence" and was not to be "drawn."

Between Two Fires

When the men left the dinner-table and came into the drawing-room she was placed as it were between two fires, Professor Chauvet and the Marchesa Farnese, both of whom were undisguisedly inquisitive. Farnese especially—and Diana was not slow to discover that his chief aim in conversing with her was to find out something—anything—which could throw a light on the exact nature of the work in which Dimitrius was engaged. Perceiving this, she played with him like a shuttlecock, tossing him away from his main point whenever he got too near it, much to his scarcely concealed irritation. Every now and again she caught a sidelike flash in the dark eyes of Dimitrius, who, though engaged in casual talk with the Baron and Baroness Rouillon, glanced at her occasionally in fullest inspection and approval. And somehow it became borne upon her mind that if Farnese only knew the way to the scientific laboratory, he would have very little scruple about breaking into any part of it with the hope of solving its hidden problems.

"Why do you imagine there is any mystery about the Doctor's works?" she asked him. "I know of none."

"He would never let any woman know," replied Farnese, with conviction. "But she might find out for herself if she were clever! There is a mystery without doubt. For instance, what is the use of domes of glass which catches the sunlight on its roof and glitters in the distance, when I look from my sailing boat on the lake—"

"Oh, you have a sailing boat on the lake?" exclaimed Diana, clasping her hands in well-affected ecstasy. "How enchanting! Like Lord Byron, when he lived at the Villa Diodati"

"Ah!" put in Professor Chauvet. "So you know your Byron! Then you are not one of the 'moderns'"

Diana smiled.

"No, I do not prefer Kipling to the author of 'Childe Harold'"

"Then you are lost—irretrievably lost!" said the Professor. "In England, at any rate."

When a Girl Marries

Interesting Serial by Ann Lisle

HOW was I to act?

"Jim worked for him once? Well, you have come up in the world," said Val, betraying her snobbishness.

"The Harrisons always had social position, but when they lost their money they wouldn't claim their position on sufferance," I replied, watching her face for the flush or the start of self-consciousness that didn't come. "Now that Jim is making money I suppose we will be driven to taking the family position again."

"And Lane's helping him make money," smiled Val. "Jimmie would never forget—what he owed Lane. Never. I've seen that."

She looked at me like a cat with a mouse as she said this, and I got an idea she was trying to convey. Jim would never look at Lane Cosby's wife in a way to cause Lane the least uneasiness. I needn't think my husband was so infatuated with me that he was blind to her. The battle was decided rather by a man's loyalty to a man.

I hated her for putting all these thoughts into my head, and I refused to entertain them there for more than a second. Resolutely I put them out. And in doing so I found the courage to try a bold stroke and so end this preliminary fencing between us.

"No one who has lived close to him could ever fail to be loyal to that wonderful, big brown bear of yours—that is no one but a rotter," I amended. "I supposed, Val, that is why you came to us for protection tonight. Tom Mason's a woman-hunter. I've told that to Jim over and over"

For Protection

"You think I flew to you for protection—from Tom," laughed Val, appraising me narrowly between her crinkled eyes. "I came out of curiosity. I wanted to get a closer view of the saintly looking man and the very unsaintly looking girl with you."

"You say the most startling things," I gasped with utter banality. Then I recovered my poise and asked with a mental twinkle in the eye: "And now that you've seen my Saint and Sinner, how do you feel about them?"

Val's voice had never been of a smoother creaminess than when she replied.

"And now I think that, appearances to the contrary notwithstanding, their parts may be reversed. That girl looks like the sort one wouldn't trust with one's husband, yet I daresay she is harmless. And I've seen that hawk-featured Norreys man flash blue fire at you out of his eyes. He's a power—a very successful man as well as a fascinating one, isn't he, Anne?"

"I suppose so," I replied truthfully. "You see I think always of him as a friend—as the spirit of friendship—not as a man"

Val Is Annoying

"Indeed!" Val put a volume into that word. Then she rushed on. "I don't get you at all, Anne. You aren't like me. You don't do what you decide on the way I do—no matter what's expected. You shilly-shally. That's weak. Now I take what I want."

"What are you trying to suggest to my mind, Val?" I asked quietly, but with my heart behaving unaccountably.

"Nothing—nothing at all. Why should I try to put ideas into your head?" asked Val, turning her lacquer black head in slow recession of my gaze. "I merely meant that with a man like Anthony Norreys—a power—at your back and call, I don't see why you take Jim so seriously. Now why, for instance, did you object to his interest in me—when you had this altogether superior man to make up for it?"

"Valerie—you're joking!" I protested.

She laughed, but there was a queer catch in her throat as she replied:

"Never more serious. And I don't often take the trouble to explain myself to people. You're married to a nice boy. Natural that the attention of a man, and such a man —a power in the world — should mean a great deal to you. I'm married to a man—a power—why begrudge me my fling with a boy? I'm young—I can't always pretend to be mated to a man old enough to be my father."

There was revelation in every word, a sincerity I had never seen her show. So no matter how much her ideas revolted me I had to give her serious reply.

"The very first day we met you told me you never could have married a man who wasn't a success and a lover," I said slowly. "I've never forgotten that. I thought your deep respect and admiration for Lane Cosby part of your life, Val. Surely you wouldn't cheapen a man like that—or risk losing him for a bit of silly larking about?"

Val's face twisted strangely.

"Oh, Lane's mine fast enough. And that's the only kind of man I'd have for a husband. But that's no reason for refusing a bit of harmless fun, . . . Jimmie or Tommie or some nice playmate. I always take what I want, Anne—and when it comes to the reckoning I don't pay the way serious-minded preachers do. You ought to make a note of that."

Then she flung herself to her feet and faced me with a sudden question that I felt represented the other half of her purpose in thrusting herself on me.

A Deep Question

"By the way, gentle Annie, I wonder if you can give me the answer to a question I was asking Tommie only tonight—Why is that little cousin of his so cool to me all of a sudden? It can't be because she minded my bringing you in to O. K. her love scene with your brother She asked me to pour at her tea after that. But she's very up-stage these days. You don't think she'd mean anything by it, do you?"

LAURA

LAURA, which is generally conceded to be best suited to women of meek and gentle mien, should, by right of derivation, signify victor, since it not only means, but also comes from the laurel, sign of the conqueror. However, its derivation is somewhat devious and rather more poetic.

The real root of Laura is in Roman mythology, where the lares were the spirits which guarded the home and were represented by images placed near the hearthstone. On certain religious occasions, these images were adorned with crowns of laurel or Laurentia, sometimes spelled Laurelia. Greek mythology made poor Laurentia a nymph, whom, because of her chattering, Jupiter sent to the lower regions, accompanied by Mercury.

Another tradition makes her the woman who nursed Romulus and Remus and disposes of her and the she-wolf simultaneously. Still a third version degraded her like Flora, who was once a goddess in whose honor Spring festivals were given, and made her leave all her property to the State in the time of Ancus Martius.

Laura's flower, the laurel with its cool, chaste bloom, has peculiar powers. It dispels contagion in time of plague, and in Italy its boughs are thrown on the fire during a thunder storm. The Italians have always loved the name, due perhaps to that most exquisite love story of history, Petrauch's. Laura has a place among the immortals They call her Lorenza in Italy as well as Laura.

Her jewel is the emerald, the color of the heart of woodland. It is said to have the mystic power to strengthen the eyesight of its wearer, and when it could not protect from danger old superstition has it that a piece would break from the gem. Monday is Laura's lucky day and two her lucky number.

An extract from a charming poem written to Laura by Edward Stedman follows:

"Laura, my darling, the years that have flown
Brought few of the prizes I pledged to my own;
I said that no sorrow should roughen her way—
Her life should be cloudless, a long Summer's day.
Shadow and sunshine, thistles and flowers,
Which of the two, darling, most have been ours?
Yet tonight, by the smile on your lips, I can see
You are dreaming of me, darling, dreaming of me."

American Baby's Nursery

By Loretto C. Lynch

IN planning that new home, are you counting on a nursery for baby?

One of the criticisms our English friends make about American homes is that they are built for grown-up folks with never a thought for the children. And frankly do they criticise us in this respect.

American children have the reputation of being very ill-mannered. One often finds their play-things strewn about and the children engaged in the festive sports of childhood while one tries, oh so hard, to converse with the mother of these same kiddies. But were a place provided for these children to indulge their little pleasures of childhood, they would appear quite as well-mannered, as for instance, the middle-class English child, who is busily engaged in his nursery when you call.

But if a home really exists for the care and development of the child, no home, however small, should be without a nursery. And kindly discipline should be exercised to train the children to remain in this room when they wish to play.

A nursery I saw recently in a delightful California bungalow was an inexpensive affair, yet it served its purpose splendidly. Because little hands are often grimy, gray was chosen for woodwork and doors. The wall was panelled in gray wood about half way up. The rest of the wall was tinted a neutral gray. This made a perfect background for the bright and colorful nursery folk pictures in their narrow black frames.

On either side of the big window there were a built-in chest of drawers in convenient height. These were also finished in washable gray enamel. They were roomy drawers for story books and games.

There was a small gray table, sturdily built, and several little chairs to match. And it was surprising to see how carefully little Jane, aged three, handled her tiny tea set when it came to be dolly's tea time.

Pin checked gingham was used for the casement curtains at the windows. It was inexpensive, bright and very easily laundered.

The little ones learned neatness and order. For while mother left them for a few minutes alone in the nursery, they never left it but that her watchful eye saw to it that all playthings were replaced and the drawers carefully shut.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion. Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence—the digestion of food, the extraction of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to extract all the full nourishment from food and that in turn means anaemia, impoverished blood, weakness, anaemia, etc. Poor elimination means an accumulation of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Headache,—due to some interference with the process of elimination. Sour stomach,—due to some interference with the process of digestion. Constipation,—due to some interference with the process of assimilation.

NR (Nature's Remedy Tablets) corrects the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect to rid himself of rheumatic pain as long as rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body?

Think of this, it explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay five or ten times as much for uncertain relief? Also try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), combining enough to last twenty-five days,—must help you, must satisfactory benefit or your money back.

And Nature's Remedy is not only the true relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, tones the liver, regulates kidney and bowel action, improves the blood, and strengthens the whole system. You'll feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets a week. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now prove the real test. You'll get results this time. PRICES HIGHER IN BOSTON

Speculation Is Brisk on the Local Exchange; Curb Trading Without Life

Prices were up at the opening in Boston and trading was brisk at the start. The activity on the exchange in New York stimulated speculating here. Waldorf and Eastern Steamship issues sold at new record highs within a few minutes. Island Oil touched a high for the year, and Island Creek. It was one of the strongest stocks. United Fruit was also active. Amoskeag made a big gain for a copper. Red metal mining issues pulled firm. Rails were quiet. Auto accessory shares had an upward trend. Packing house issues were inclined the other way.

Large gains during the morning included Abenaki 6, Island Creek 3, United Fruit 1¾, Eastern Steamship preferred 2, common 1¾, Mexican Investment 2 and Gray & Davis 1. Fractional gains were made by Calumet & Arizona, East Butte, Isle Royale, Keweenaw, Nipissing Mexico, Orpheum, Island Oil, Bighead and North Butte. Waldorf soon lost its gain.

Massachusetts Gas receded a point and smaller losses were shown by Swift & Co., Swift International, National Leather and United Shoe.

LITTLE LIFE TO CURB.

The Curb repeated itself by a quiet opening. Mannattan was the early leader as regards activity. The trend was indefinite when the list was released as a whole. John T. Connor Co. opened at 14¾, sold at 15 and reacted to its opening price. Strong issues at the start included Atlas Tack, Gilliland, Red Warrior and Hogton & Montana. Among weak ones were Black Hawk, Arizona Silver, Alvarado, Mutual Gas and Simms Petroleum.

At the end of an hour Gilliland was up ½ at 43, Arizona Silver ¼ at 1¾ and Mutual trust 1 cent at 85 cents, while Atlas Tack was off ¼ at 12¾. Simms 1¾ at 21 and Universal Silver 5 cents at 9 cents.

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.

Sure Way to Make Merchant Marine Profitable

John Barton Payne, who wanted to sell all the German ships to an Anglo-Wall Street syndicate, is out of the Shipping Board.

Rear-Admiral William Shepherd Benson, who has taken his place, seems to be a thorough AMERICAN.

What he will want to do with the ten million tons of ships that the Government now owns, controls or has contracted for is to some extent indicated by his testimony before a Congressional committee recently on the Naval bill.

As ranking officer in the service and as Chief of Naval Operations he urged the necessity of making our navy, not the largest, but the most efficient in the world in capital ships, destroyers, submarines and in the air.

Asked by a member of the Naval Committee if he did not think, in view of the likelihood of a League of Nations, it would be safe to reduce our large naval program, he replied bluntly:

Yes, if you are willing to rely upon Great Britain, which controls the seas, ALWAYS TO PROTECT US.

It was Admiral Benson, also, who warned Admiral Sims "not to let the English pull the wool over your eyes"—a warning before we entered the war doubtless suggested by Admiral Sims' well-known pro-British attitude of mind.

It is a hopeful sign to have such a man as Benson as head of the United States Shipping Board. We doubt if a man of his character would ever turn the finest fleet of express steamers in the world, obtained from Germany, over to a private syndicate that has always operated under the British flag and that is now building in England two hundred thousand tons of vessels to be commanded by British officers and to belong to the British Naval Reserve.

But Admiral Benson can do nothing without the aid and support of Congress. If he has his way, we believe that the great German liners will be speedily refitted and put in service, under supervision of the Government, on the principal lanes of travel between New York and Europe, between the chief Atlantic ports and South America and between the Pacific ports and the Orient.

The commerce committees of the Senate and House acted with exemplary promptness when Mr. Hearst's suit in the District Supreme Court stopped the sale of these great ships to the Anglo-Wall Street syndicate. That sale was secretly planned, and it would have been carried out according to the private understanding before any public protest could have been made effective if Mr. Hearst's suit had not prevented it.

It is now imperatively necessary for Congress to provide a way to use this magnificent fleet profitably in commerce, while always retaining it as part of our transport reserve.

Congress must do another thing. It must create an American marine insurance market to protect our ships against control by Great Britain, whose virtual monopoly of the carrying trade, including control of insurance and classification, has twice in the history of the United States driven our flag from the ocean.

There are several ways of insuring the success of the new American merchant marine. One of the earliest Congresses after the Revolutionary War did it most efficiently by a statute of a few lines providing that all dutiable imports entering our ports in American bottoms should pay a slightly lower rate than imports brought by foreign ships.

The effect of this law was that the percentage of overseas commerce carried in American vessels, which in 1789 was only 23 per cent., was IN LESS THAN TEN YEARS raised to 90 per cent.

If this statute were re-enacted, the American flag would again dominate the seven seas.

Hoover and Johnson; A Study in Contrasts

Senator Watson of Indiana, loyal captain of the Old Guard, has recorded, with obvious glee, his belief that:

The only man Hoover is going to hurt is Hiram Johnson. And I think he will cut Johnson's throat.

The wish is too plainly father to the thought.

Two men more unlike than Hoover and Johnson have rarely appeared on one political stage.

Mr. Hoover is an opportunist, a political jockey, willing to ride any colors or on any horse that seems likely to win. His experience and observation convinced him in Paris a year ago that the League of Nations covenant was CONTRARY TO OUR TRADITIONS, OUR BEST INTERESTS AND OUR PRINCIPLES. He said so in his letter to President Wilson.

But when Mr. Wilson later attempted to force the covenant upon the Senate and the country, Mr. Hoover supported him by speech and letter. Then when Mr. Wilson's program was rejected by the country, Mr. Hoover again switched and now demands the League of Nations with "American amendments."

Mr. Hoover calls himself a progressive, but does not tell what he means. He coquetted with both parties, declaring allegiance to neither, was willing to accept the support of both or either, but now decides that the Republican party is the "best bet." The international financial syndicates that were behind the peace treaty all like him, and his support is so strong from such sources that he has to "pussy-foot" on the real issues.

Hiram Johnson on the other hand, is a genuine progressive who tells everybody where he stands, "raising a standard to which all honest men can repair," and trusting the people to decide rightly.

From the day of his entry into public service as the successor of Heney in the prosecution of Abe Ruef in San Francisco, through his memorable term as the house-cleaning Governor of California, down to his latest speech and vote as a Senator of the United States, he has been an upstanding, plain-spoken, battling progressive, with all his political cards face upward on the table.

Owned by no man, no special interest. Afraid of no man and no combination of men. Serving unswervingly the public interest as he sees it.

SINCE I was here.
ONE YEAR ago.
BY THE Golden Gate.
MY GAMBLER friend.
WHOM I used to know.
HAS PASSED away.
AND SHE who told me.
HE HAD gone.
SAT DOWN with me.
FOR AN hour or two.
AND WE talked of him.
AND SHE it was.
WHO BROUGHT to him.
THE GRIEF she found.
IN STRICKEN homes.
AND TOLD him tales.
OF POVERTY.
AND HUNGRY mouths.
AND SHOELESS kids.
AND WHEN she'd told.
WHAT SHE had found.
THIS GAMBLING man.
WOULD GO with her.
AND FROM his gains.
ILL-GOTTEN gains.
THE WORLD will say.
THEY'D PURCHASE things.
FOR HUNGRY mouths.
AND SHOELESS kids.
AND GO their way.
IN TAXICABS.
AND LEAVE the things.
THAT THEY had bought.
AND SCATTER joy.
WHERE GLOOM had been.
AND NIGHT would come.
AND WHOM they served.
WITH WHAT they bought.
WOULD SLEEP in peace.
WHILE HE.
THIS WICKED gambling man.
BEHIND CLOSED doors.
THAT BARRED the law.
WOULD PLY his trade.
I KNEW this man.
FOR TWENTY years.
AND MANY times.
I TOOK him grief.
THAT I had found.
WHEN OTHER folk.
MORE LAWFUL folk.
HAD TURNED deaf ears.
TO WHAT I told.
AND IN that time.
I NEVER heard.
A PROFANE word.
NOR VULGAR tale.
COME FROM his lips.
AND ALL that time.
HE WAS my friend.
AND I was his.
AND ALL the time.
HE BROKE the law.
AND STILL,
I SOMEHOW feel.
THAT WHEN he left.
THIS VALE of tears.
AND FOUND himself.
OUTSIDE THE gate.
AND KNOCKED.
THAT IT may be.
ST. PETER smiled.
AND SAID to him.
"I SHOULDN'T do it.
BUT COME on in."

I THANK you.

Americans, who understand conditions, are encouraged by Hiram Johnson's victory. It means, as he says, that a citizen without financial backing can meet and whip the forces of capital organized to control government.

You who read the Hearst newspapers will observe that they alone, among the big newspapers of the country, gave to Johnson's campaign honest, full publicity, and the encouragement deserved by a man fighting for the average man, and against privilege.

A New York paper owned by the J. P. Morgan interests said on the day before election that Hiram Johnson "might" carry Detroit "because the forces of unrest are back of him."

As this is written, Johnson leads the man with the biggest barrel by about fifty thousand votes. There must be considerable "unrest" in Michigan.

The amusing part of the Michigan vote was the race between Hoover, the foreign candidate, and Edwards of New Jersey, the wet candidate. Edwards won in the cities.

The next announcement interesting to candidates will be supplied by Johnson's own State. It must be a satisfaction to California to have a native son that can hit such a hard blow in far-off Michigan. Many "native sons" do not carry so far. It also interests California, undoubtedly, to see Johnson generously encouraged in great cities all over the nation by another native son, Hearst, who controls the greatest publications in the United States and is able to tell the truth to millions every day.

How will women vote next Fall? No one need worry about the answer to that question. Johnson's show of power will compel even newspapers owned by organized capital to print some of the things that he says, and occasionally to print his picture.

When the women see that face they will say, "There is a man I can trust." The first thing that women look for in men is strength. They needed it in ancient days to protect their children from bears and wolves. They need it now to protect their pocketbooks from trusts and profiteers.

Women will have much to say about public affairs in future, and will study them more closely than men.

With all their handicaps they have had much to do with public affairs in the past. For instance, you read about Smith College and the effort to increase its resources. Your mind sees a little girl, long ago, sitting on the steps of the academy at Hatfield to which "females" were not admitted. That little girl, hungry for knowledge, listened to boys reciting their lessons and gathered what knowledge she could through the open window. Sophia Smith was her name. When she died she left $352,000 to found Smith College for girls.

How much do you think Henry Ward Beecher's sister, Harriet Beecher Stowe, did for freedom when she wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin?"

And how much do you think the sister of Augustus did for Rome and civilization, advising her brother wisely, and for his sake and for her country, enduring patiently all the nonsense of her husband, Marc Antony, who was pursuing Cleopatra? Reading history intelligently, we learn that women have been to men what the Punch and Judy gentlemen behind the shelf is to the little manikin that he works on the ends of his fingers. Women have feeling, sincerity and devotion. Men are ambitious and selfish. Without the women's moral force this would be a hideous world.

The Russian government appears to be winning on all fronts. Cables say, "Lenin exults in miracle of victories."

No miracle, just enthusiasm. When ice melts and pent up waters start down hill, tremendous force is behind them.

The power of Russia was frozen under Romanoff autocratic power. The ice is melting, and force is with it.

Also there is meaning in a photograph from Russia, showing Lenin, in a short coat and cheap hat, walking to the opera. That suits two hundred and fifty millions of people that also walk when they go to a performance.

How to Solve Vital Problem of Rent and Homes

—By Harry N. Guterman—

Former Assistant to the Attorney-General and Counsel to the Commission on the Necessaries of Life

HOW long must Boston suffer under rent profiteering?

How long will the dollar-grabbing speculator be permitted to run his course of get-rich-quick deception at the expense of the wage-earner and the man of moderate means? To get at the kernel of the nut quickly, the situation must be understood.

There has sprung up in the city, following the cessation of building activities, a group of unscrupulous and menacing speculators who have mulcted the citizens of Boston out of millions of dollars through forced inflation of property values, manipulated "wash" transfers of property.

Simple Scheme

The scheme is simple. These men operate through "straw men"—persons who have no financial or personal responsibility, but who, for a small fee, sign their names to deeds, mortgages, rent increases, etc.

The unscrupulous speculator purchases a piece of property for a price based on its current income value. Immediately the property goes in the name of some irresponsible agent and rents are increased. Another sale results, with the inflated rentals as a basis for a higher price asked.

Rent raises follow the new sale, with usually another "straw man" as titular holder of the property. Argument over the new rent increases is met by proofs of the price paid and the assertion that the holder is entitled to a fair return on his investment.

Transfer after transfer follow on each other's heels, each at an inflated price. Eventually the property passes into the hands of someone outside the "gang"—usually someone compelled to purchase to insure a home for himself and his family.

The example of constantly increasing rents has induced other landlords to raise their charges accordingly, with the result that the renters of Boston homes are in the grasp of an octopus no less deadly and real because unseen.

The Solutions

Something must be done to curb this condition, either by judicial or legislative action. The only other solution is State encouragement to home building. Failing in these solutions, we face increased speculation and serious distress for the poor through inability to pay the rapidly mounting housing charges.

There is little hope for a resumption of building. The high price of labor and materials is prohibitive. Today's speculators in rentals are yesterday's speculative builders. They WILL NOT build when they can pyramid winnings without new outlays. It is to their interest to DISCOURAGE BUILDING.

Hope of redress through investigating committees is small. Means of concealment of true financial conditions are many. Profits are concealed through the fraudulent transfers. The last purchaser comes into "court" with apparently clean hands, as he shows an exorbitant payment for the property he has "purchased" and claims his American right of a fair profit on his investment.

Problem Twofold

The problem of housing in Boston is twofold. First, the problem of new houses to take care of the increase in population.

This problem is NOT acute, but is made to appear acute because the profiteering landlord attempts to conceal his outrageous rental increases by forcing his old tenants to vacate—then re-renting the property to new tenants at the higher price. This creates a condition where many families are constantly in immediate need of a home.

Last week I represented a client in the sale of a three-family house in Dorchester to one of these landlords. After title was transferred the new owner immediately instructed his attorney to order the old tenants to vacate. He then turned to me and, smiling gleefully, he boasted that he had purchased twenty-nine houses this month and had not taken title to a single one in his own name.

"It is easier and better to hold property in the names of 'straw men,'" he said. "I do not appear in any trouble with tenants. I do not raise present rents. I order the old ones out and rent at higher prices to others forced out by some other man. My old tenants who might kick at a boost by me are glad to rent the other man's tenements at his price."

This exchange of tenants gives a surface appearance of insufficient housing which could be remedied at least in large measure by insuring a continuation of tenancy.

It is remarkable, too, that while landlords cry that this present situation is due to five years without building, there was no scarcity of tenements—in fact, property was very cheap and plentiful—until about a year ago when the speculators began their operations.

There IS need for new houses, but the need is for HOMES in which children can be reared and families may LIVE. Houses in which there can be created the atmosphere of a REAL home as distinguished from a place in which people sleep.

This problem is a problem for the State to solve by encouraging home building and discouraging the speculative "kitchenette apartment" house. This is a problem which does not press for immediate solution and which need not be taken into consideration at this time. The REAL problem is therefore to curb the RENT HOG LANDLORD in his exorbitant demands for existing real estate.

There is the plan of Mr. George E. Brock of the Mayor's rent committee, who suggests that there are many houses in Boston out of repair and in undesirable localities which can be rehabilitated and used to relieve the situation.

There are two objections to this solution. First, there is no assurance that these houses when they are rehabilitated will not get into the possession of the same type of speculator, who is so largely responsible for the present situation.

Secondly, that while houses may be rehabilitated it is admitted that these houses are in undesirable localities which cannot be rehabilitated so easily and have been vacated because they have not been desirable to people having American standards of living. To encourage families to return and attempt to rear a new generation amidst surroundings they have outgrown is bad social policy.

Bluff of Landlords

In this connection I want to say I resent the suggestion made by the smooth-tongued, mealy-mouthed representatives of the landlords who appear at every hearing on the rent problems primed with specious arguments to "explain," and who proclaim their "innocence, honesty and fairness." They "desire" to aid and ask to be helped to secure changes in the statutes of the Commonwealth and ordinances of the cities with regard to fire-hazard lines, health regulations and building law requirements, claiming that these regulations prevent new building and the fuller use of existing property. They are trying to "put one over" on the community.

There must be no letup in our enforcement of sanitary laws and building laws intended to make our cities healthful, safe and desirable places in which to live.

Profiteering must not be allowed to make an additional profit at the expense of the safety and health of our citizens.

Only Real Hope

The only REAL light which has been thrown on this problem and the only real HOPE which comes to the community is the organization of the American Tenants' League.

This organization by effective co-operation can and I hope will make possible the passage of legislation designed to put an end not only to the malefactions of the rent profiteers, but bring about a state of clean homes—the sort of homes out of which we may expect a next generation of true Americans.

The legislation called for by the so-called Hays rent bill is in the right direction. This bill is not perfect. It should have at least two additional provisions.

First, it should provide that the real owner of property shall register his name with the clerk of the city or town in which the property is located, so that he himself may be subject to the penalties both legal and social which will attach to his conviction for grasping greed.

Second, it should provide that the percentage of income allowed to be earned on real estate should be on a fixed value of the property, i. e., on its assessed valuation, and NOT ON A SALE PRICE, which may be fictitious or inflated.

Seeks Results

Mr. Hays has a real interest in this pressing social problem. I do not know him, but what I have learned convinces me that he is of that type of legislator who is interested more in the accomplishment of effective work than in securing of publicity and prestige for himself.

He recognizes that his bill is not perfect, and asks for a conference with the legislative, judicial and executive officers of the city in order that they may assist in perfecting the bill. This broad-minded policy, not often followed by politicians, is much to be commended and the lack of a precedent for such a conference ought not to be permitted to prevent it.

Mr. Hays' bill is the BEST BILL so far offered, and with the help that can be given him by the Governor, the Attorney-General, the Chief Justices of the Supreme and Superior courts and the Speaker of the House, whose assistance he asks, his bill can be so perfected as to be a very effective means of relieving the rent problem of the State.

Mr. Hays should get the help he asks for, and his bill changed, if it needs changing, early to pass as emergency legislation.
